Durham, N. C.

In Recognition . . .

of his sincere friendship for Durham High and all of her students, his clear and informative teaching which "gets it across," his understanding of high-school boys and girls and their problems, and his downright good-fellowship, the Senior Class affectionately dedicates this 1942 MESSENGER to the dean of boys of Durham High School . . .

CONRAD SIDNEY HOOPER, JR.

Dear Reader . . .

Here she is! We have worked long and hard over her, we have sweated and toiled, but finally our brain child has been completed. She is a versatile thing. The advisers, the staff, the photographers, the printers and engravers—all have added their bit, and she has the best that each one can give.

Now she is yours, and the final part is up to you. She still needs one thing—your stamp of approval. We have tried to make her show Durham High (D. H. S. to her friends) as she really is—the people, the activities, and, most important of all, the everyday life of the school, the unposed snapshots of what really goes on behind those beloved old brick walls, of what really, more than any organized group or activity, made 1942 at Durham High what it has been.

So as you turn through these pages, try to imagine yourself back at D. H. S. Hear “two bells” ringing in your ears, listen to the hub-bub in the halls, smell the odors floating up from the kitchen at fifth period, see the boy sitting next to you struggling with a Latin translation or an algebra problem, feel the cold water of the showers running off your back, and, with a teacher’s voice droning away in the background, watch the hands of the clock edge slowly toward 3:10.

If this book can aid in recapturing these memories, our job has been complete.

Your friends,

WALTER CANNON, Editor

JULIA DUNNE, Business Manager

make a school. Seniors, juniors, sophomores, teachers—all play their part in the life of Durham High. Each one's picture brings to mind what that person did in 1941-42—sometimes something small, sometimes something great, always something individual and characteristic.

This section, then, contains people—some important, some not so important, but all different. Your friends, your acquaintances, your rivals—the people of Durham High.

Senior Class

The senior class started the year with election of officers, conducted by the Student Council. In the race for president, Harvey Renn defeated Bill Alexander, who automatically became vice-president. Kenneth Turner was elected secretary and Earl Jones won the treasurer's job.

The class received a blow when one of its members, Leone Lee, was killed in an automobile accident on December 1.

During the entire year the main topic of discussion was the public-address system which the classes of 1941, 1942, and 1943 had voted to give the school as their class gift but which had not been installed due to a shortage of materials. After much argument as to whether to put in a possibly inadequate system or to keep the money until proper equipment could be purchased, the class voted to invest the money, about $175, in U. S. War Bonds for the duration.

The outstanding social events of the year were the Junior-Senior Social and Senior Play. Tom Cranford and Dot Murray were elected representative boy and girl of the senior class.

At the next-to-last class meeting it was decided to have a class reunion in five years. President Renn appointed a committee to arrange for the meeting.

Junior Class

Ralph Rogers, President; Tommy Fowler, Treasurer; Anne Stapleford, Secretary; Jake Woodall, Vice-President.

Election of officers, the Junior-Senior Social, and the buying of United States War Bonds featured the activities of the junior class this year.

After the election of Mack Hales as president, Ralph Rogers as vice-president, Anne Stapleford as secretary, and Tommy Fowler as treasurer, the promotion of Hales to the senior class automatically made Rogers president. To fill the vacancy of vice-president, Jake Woodall was elected as Rogers' successor.

With Miss Brown Phillips and W. H. Coble as faculty advisers, the annual Junior-Senior Social was held on March 27. The following committees planned the evening's fun for the junior and senior classes: Decorations: chairmen, Carolyn Hooper, J. R. Coggin; Ralph Ripley, Carlyle Bowen, Frances Carr, Holt Thornton. Entertainment: chairman, Lucille Long; Harold Fuquay, Dennis O'Briant, Marcella Briggs, "Budda" Ormond. Refreshments: chairman, Betsy Buchanan; Fred Isaacs, Jake Woodall, John Lasater, Joyce Bowling, Jean Berry. Invitations: chairman, Betty Weaver; Charles Brame, Frances Airheart, Mildred Byers, Don Ross, Winston Smith.

Following the lead of the senior and sophomore classes, the juniors voted unanimously to purchase War Bonds with the class gift money appropriated last year for a public address system. All money remaining from that allotted for the Junior-Senior Social was also invested in bonds.

Sophomore Class

Frances Elder, Secretary; Hal Schroder, Treasurer; Benson McCutcheon, Vice-President; Charles Brewer, President.

Who were the originators of the Defense Bond buying plan which every class in Durham High has since adopted? Who carried out the movement to make Durham High war-minded? Who were the prime movers in the school "Salvage for Victory" campaign? Yes, you've guessed it—the Sophomores!

The Class of '44 proposed buying Government Defense Bonds, which will be used, after the war is over, for a Public Address System in the school, and carried out this idea by purchasing two hundred dollars' worth. The Sophomores started the drive to make the students of D. H. S. more war-minded, and materially aided our war effort by collecting scrap paper.

In no other class meetings in the school was more spirit and enthusiasm shown than in those of the Sophomores. Although supposedly the greenest and most inexperienced class in D. H. S., the Sophomores gave themselves wholeheartedly to all school projects, and distinguished themselves by perseverance in putting through what they started.

The Class of '44 is not lacking in talent, be it on the field or in the classroom. Some examples? Take Charlie Brewer. If you had seen him breaking the tape on the track, or skirting the line for a first down, you would understand—even if you hadn't already seen him gracefully presiding at the Sophomore Class meetings.

And so, you could go on naming them—"lowly" Sophomores, but worthy D. H. S. members.

In Silent Expression of Grief

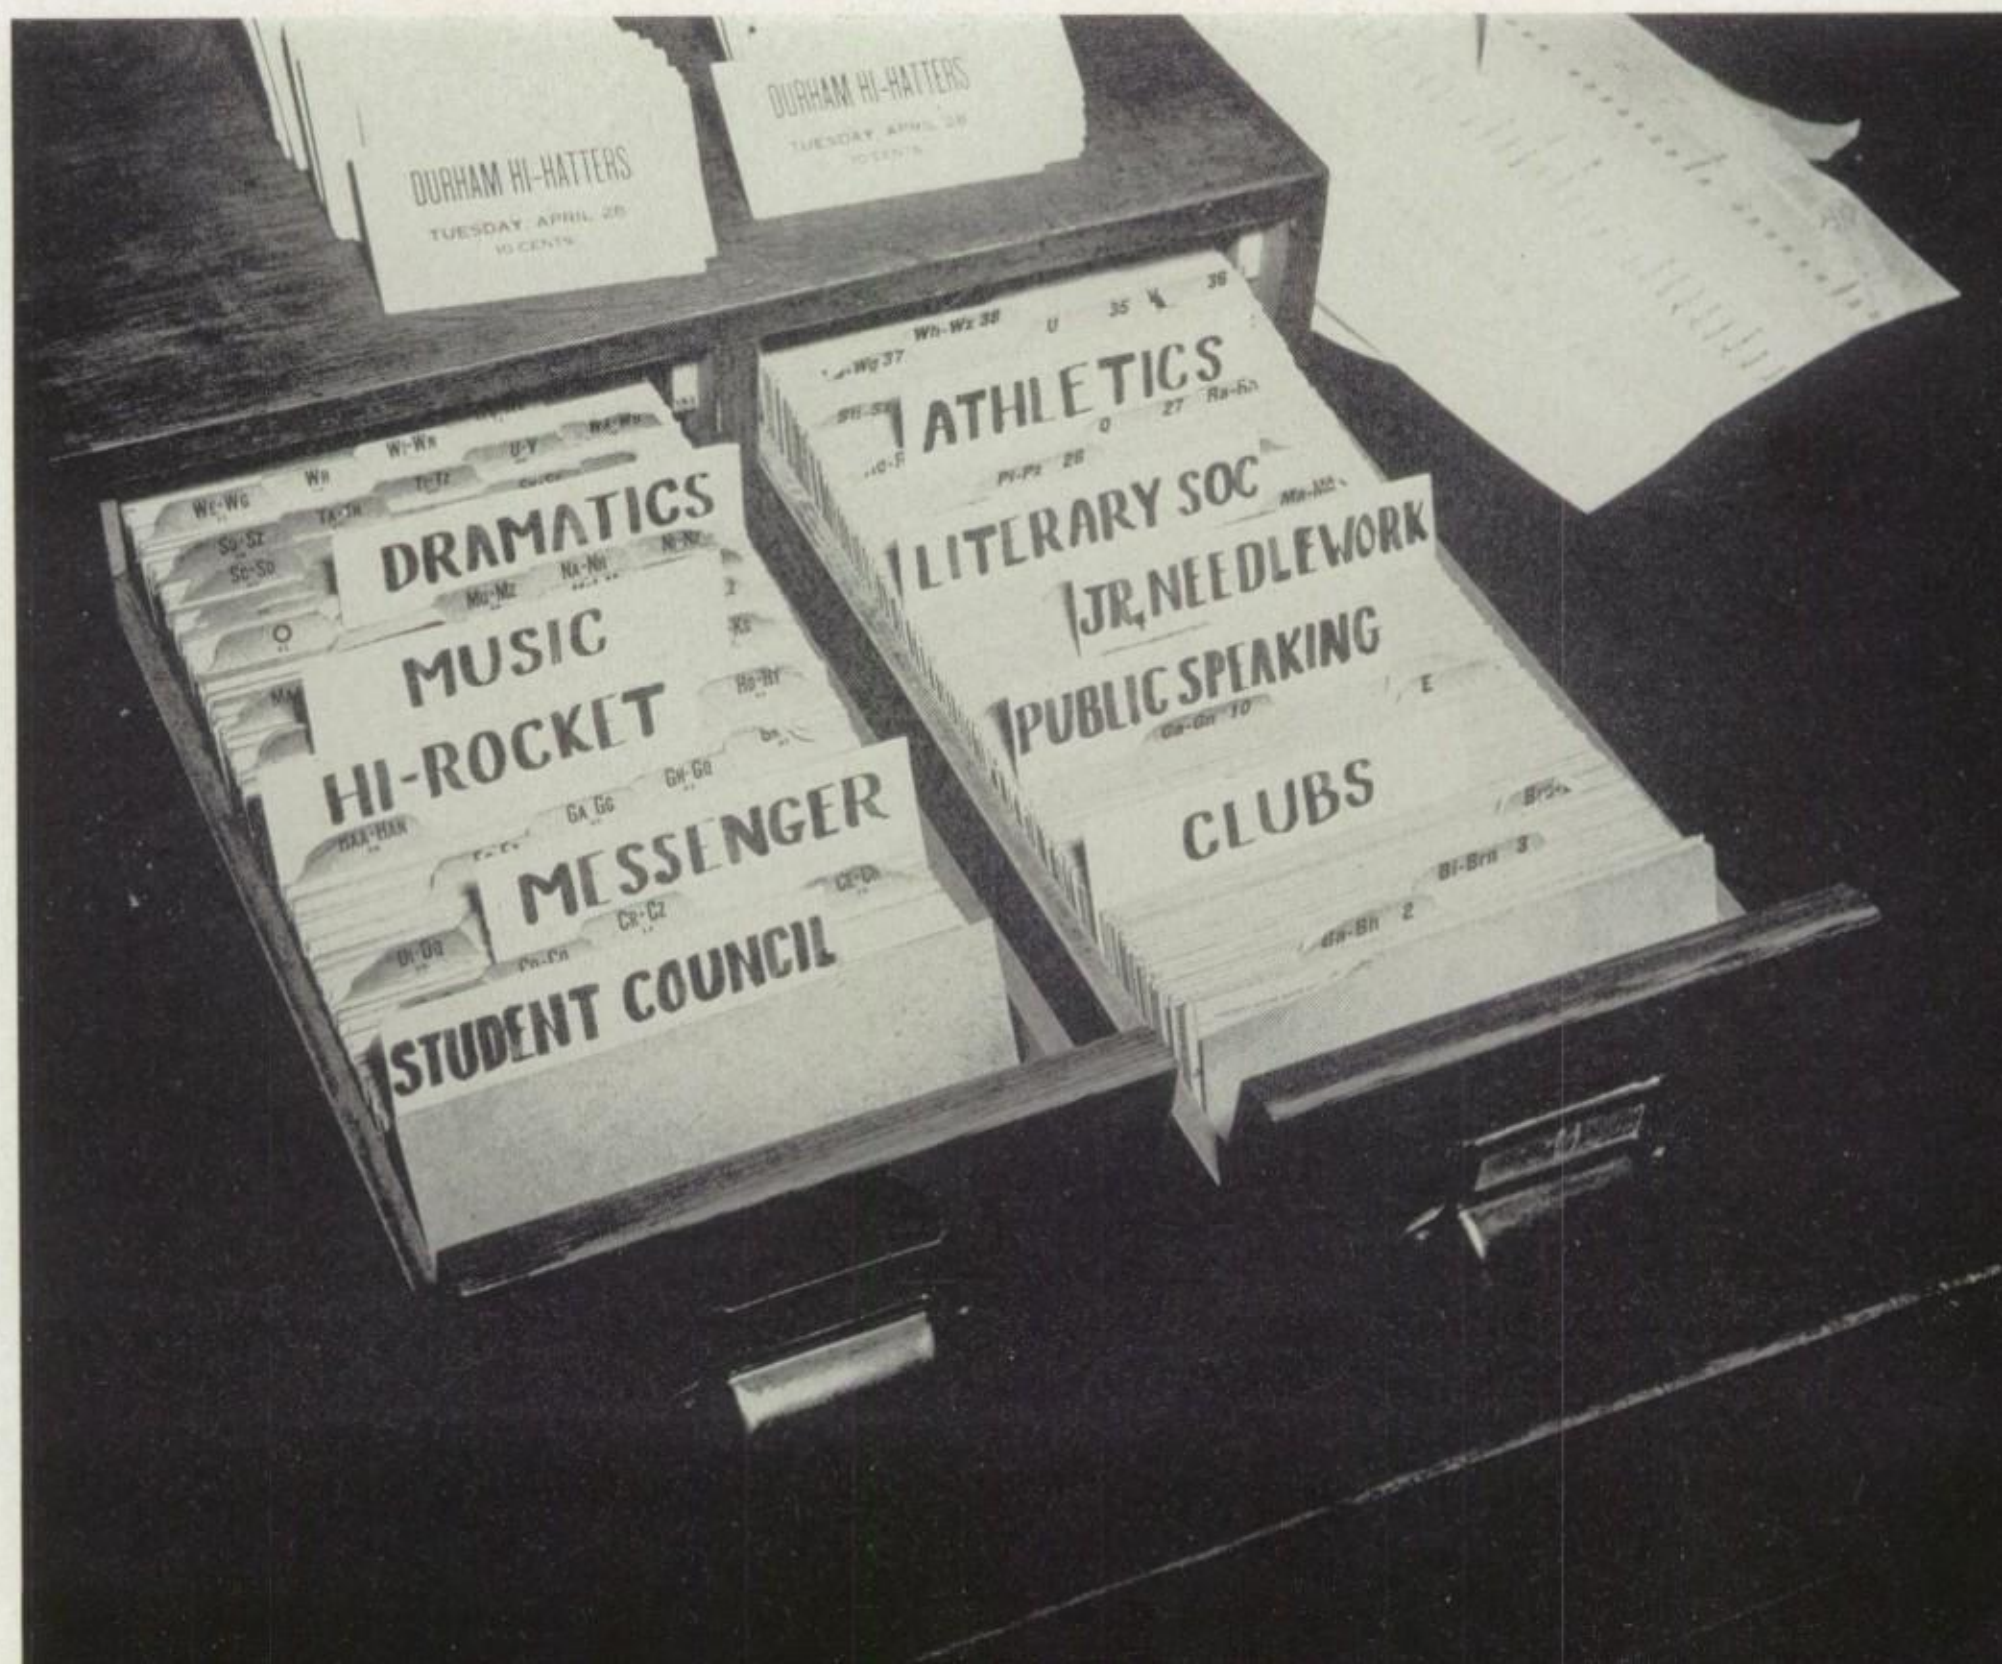

The flag was at half-mast on May 4; for Miss Luey Thomson, of the Commercial Department, was killed in an automobile accident.

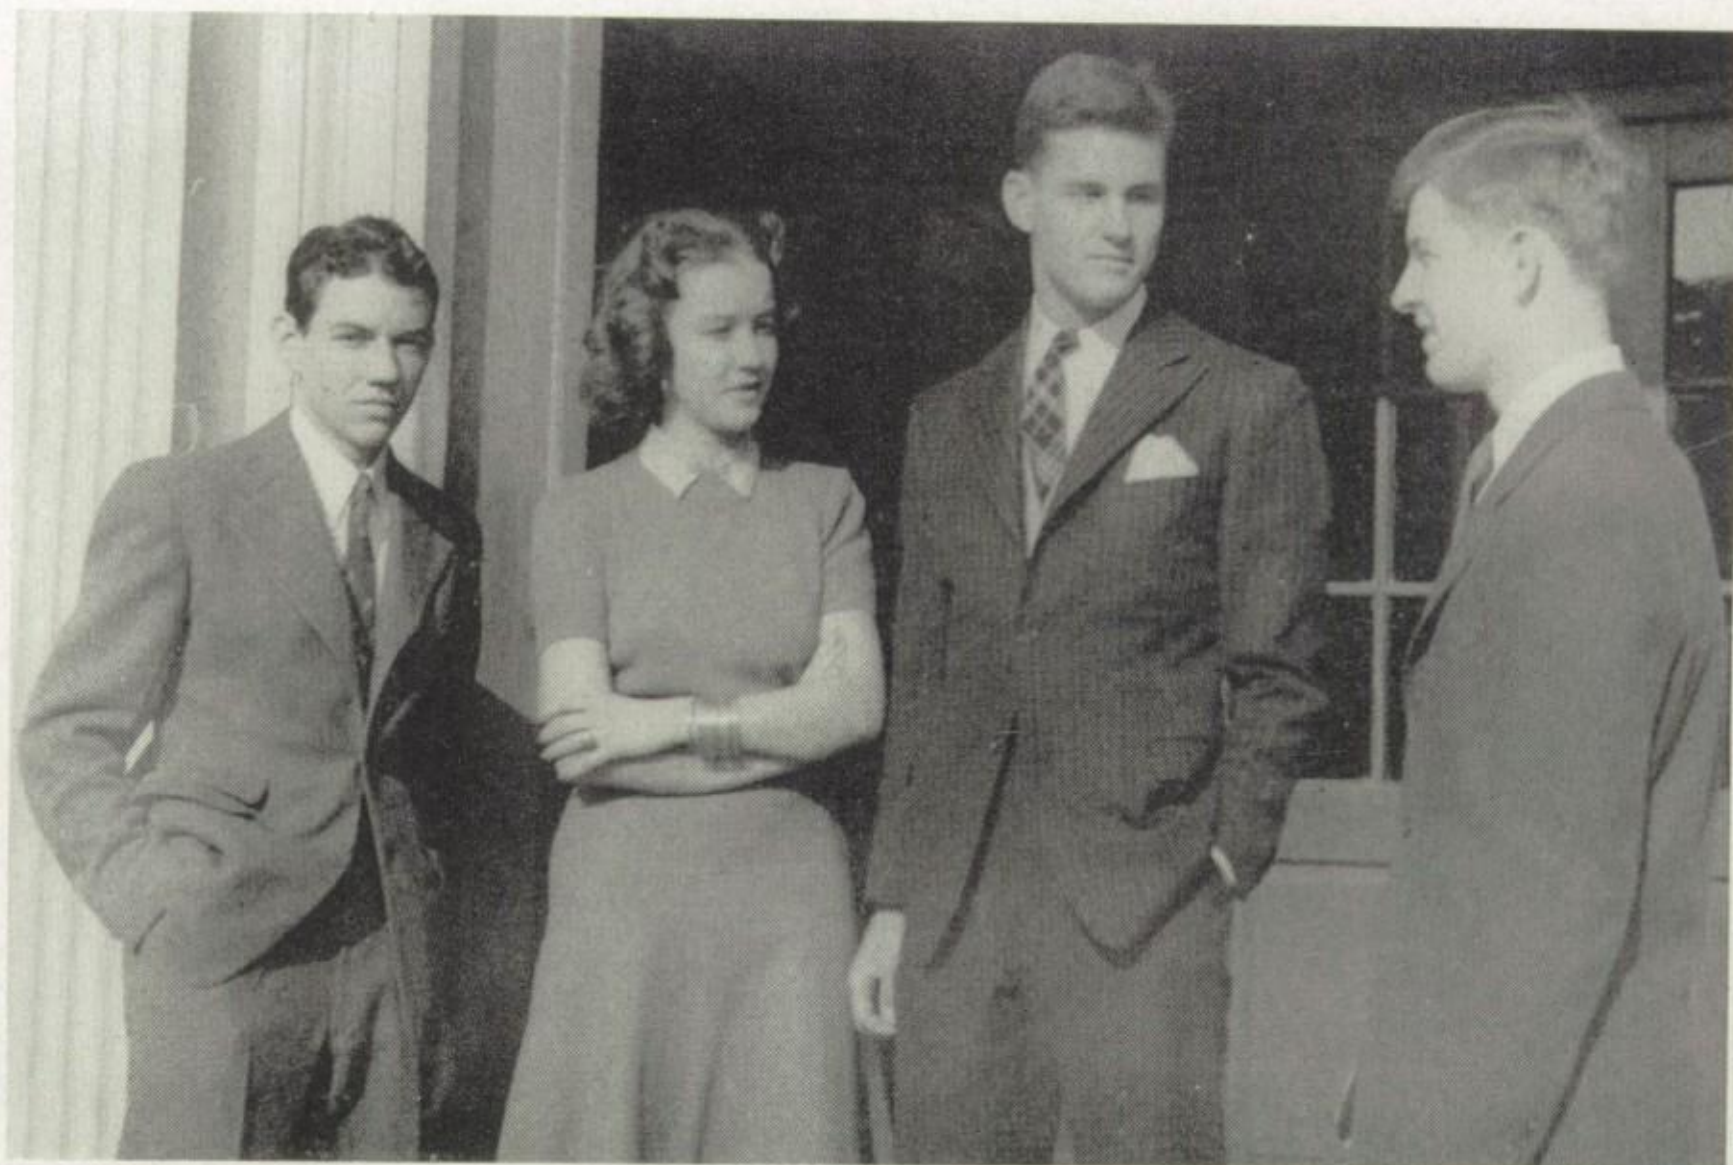

*"They never quite leave us, our friends who have passed Through the shadows of death to the sunlight above;
A thousand sweet memories are holding them fast
To the places they blessed with their presence and love."*

Activities . . .

flavor a school. A broad extra-curricular program gives pep to the school year, brings added attention to studies as a prerequisite to a heavy list of activities, and develops initiative and self-reliance. Literary societies give knowledge of parliamentary procedure, clubs emphasize interest in specialized fields, athletics develop physical fitness, and other organizations bring forth special benefits. All, along with the student council, give Durham High the opportunity for practicing self-government.

Student Council

Kenneth Saturday, Treasurer; Jean Smith, Secretary; George McLeod, Vice-President; Tom Cranford, President.

Adviser: MRS. MARGARET RICHARDSON

An ideal method of student government co-operation between the student body and its leaders, and the fulfillment of the needs of both pupils and faculty—these are the aims of the student government.

At bi-monthly meetings representatives from the twenty-nine home rooms assemble and discuss problems involving the betterment of the school. The duties of these representatives are to bring questions before the Council, carry news of the meetings to their respective home rooms, and serve on the lunch line patrol.

Acting under an amendment to the constitution of the Council, the elections of the senior, junior, and sophomore class officers are supervised by the Council, as are also the election of the Council officers themselves.

Among the projects of the group were: helping along the annual Hi-Rocket-Athletic drive, supervising the lunch line, performing various hall patrol duties, aiding in the Parent-Teachers Association membership drive, and sponsoring Friday night socials for the student body. Also the council was represented at the North Carolina Student Council Congress in Charlotte and the Social Standards Conference in Burlington. Mrs. Richardson, Council adviser, Tom Cranford, president, Ralph Rogers, and Fred Isaacs attended the Charlotte meeting. The Burlington convention had as its delegates Cranford and Benson McCutcheon. Both gatherings were held so that the various schools in the state might have the opportunity to exchange ideas beneficial to each other.

The Messenger Staff

A valued part of every graduation is the MESSENGER, with its pictures of the graduating class, pictures and write-ups of the various school activities, and informal snapshots depicting school life. Nearly every senior buys one and tries to get as many friends as he can to autograph their pictures. Underclassmen, too, take pride in their pictures and tremblingly approach the proud and haughty seniors, hoping to obtain their signatures to make their yearbook glow with the proud names.

In spite of numerous handicaps brought about by the war, the MESSENGER staff has tried to create a book more varied and interesting than ever before. It is a tremendous job, and the success or failure of the undertaking can only be decided by you. If you are pleased with the 1942 MESSENGER, it is a success.

The Hi-Rocket Staff

Newton Angier, Sidney Booth, Co-Business Managers; Charles Markham, Editor.

Adviser: MISS MARGUERITE HERR

Without sacrificing any of the high journalistic standards of past years, the 1941-42 Hi-Rocket staff attempted to break away from the past conventional style and produced a newspaper varied both in make-up and in content. Through the liberal use of pictures, numerous features about students and teachers, and through the general news articles, the staff provided wide coverage of all phases of school activities.

Despite many restrictions which naturally prohibit student editors from openly speaking their minds in the editorial columns, the Hi-Rocket at all times tried to maintain a liberal editorial policy. Instead of the usual congratulatory editorials, the editors were not averse to offer constructive criticism wherever they saw fit.

Several issues during the year were published by the junior members of the staff, thus giving the seniors much-needed rest periods, and providing the juniors with practical experience in the problems of publishing the paper.

The highlight of the school year, journalistically speaking, was the visit of Joseph M. Murphy, director of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, who came to Durham High for the second time in two years.

Amid keen competition, the 1941-42 Hi-Rocket won medalist rating in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Contest, and first place rating in the Southern Interscholastic Press Association contest. Results of the Hi-Rocket's rating in the State Newspaper Contest will not be announced until next year.

The 1941-42 Hi-Rocket was an experiment in progressive journalism, as the staff attempted to make such changes and improvements that each new issue would be better than the preceding one.

Band

Director: ROBERT G. SIMMONS

The band took on new vigor and color this year under its new director, Robert Simmons. With the introduction of the military system a marked improvement was seen both in the marching and playing of the band at the football games and parades down town with which it opened the year. Nine members won individual all-state band honors, but the band as a whole was unable to attend the state finals.

Of special interest was the formation of the "Hi-Hatters," a swing band which played for several auditorium programs and the Junior-Senior Social.

Director: ALBIN PIKUTIS

President: J. B. COUCH

The orchestra was unable to play before an audience in the first semester because the large number of new members necessitated a great deal of study and practice. However, the organization, composed of forty members, began the second term with a well-presented and well-received concert at E. K. Powe Junior High School. During the remainder of the school year the stringed unit of the orchestra appeared on numerous programs. At the evening performance of the Senior Play, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," on April 17, these musicians played between the acts. One of the radio programs in the series, "To Durham's Schools," presented over radio station WDNC under the supervision of Mr. W. Frank Warren, superintendent of the Durham City schools, featured the orchestra. Concerts at various schools also were given.

The members gave a farewell party in May in honor of its director, Mr. Albin Pikutis, who was leaving to join a defense unit in New York City. Later it was announced that Mrs. R. S. Simmons, wife of R. S. Simmons, the director of the Durham High Band, would fill Mr. Pikutis' place.

Mixed Chorus

Director: W. P. TWADDELL

The Mixed Chorus, composed of ninety-five voices, gave concerts for the Business Women of Durham, the Parent-Teachers' Association, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Rotary Club, besides singing at several school and auditorium programs. The annual Christmas Carol Service, held at the First Baptist Church, was broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up; and the Easter Carols and the program, "To Durham Schools," which on March 25 featured the chorus, were broadcast over WDNC.

Mimics Dramatics Club

Jack Highsmith, Treasurer; Patsy Brown, Secretary; Carolyn Hooper, Monitor; Marcus Carpenter, Stage Manager; Frances Carr, Vice-President; Mary Johnston, President.

Adviser: MISS BROWN PHILLIPS

As a special feature the Mimics Dramatics Club gave its sophomore, junior and senior members a chance to show their acting ability. The members from these groups staged several performances. Among these presentations were, "Circumstances Alter Cases," a sophomore production, and "The Bar 8 Ranch," given by the juniors. Several short plays were given by the seniors.

The highlight of the year was a talk by Mr. Enit, a missionary from South America, who presented an amusing and vivid description of the Latin-American people and their customs. With him was Sammy, his dummy, who entertained the members in his falsetto voice and sang a song before leaving.

"I Killed Twenty Thousand Men," a psychological study of a soldier in the first World War, produced and directed by Miss Phillips, Mimics adviser, was presented to the Dramatic Art Teachers of the North Central District Teachers Association and later to the student body at an auditorium program.

Mummers Dramatics Club

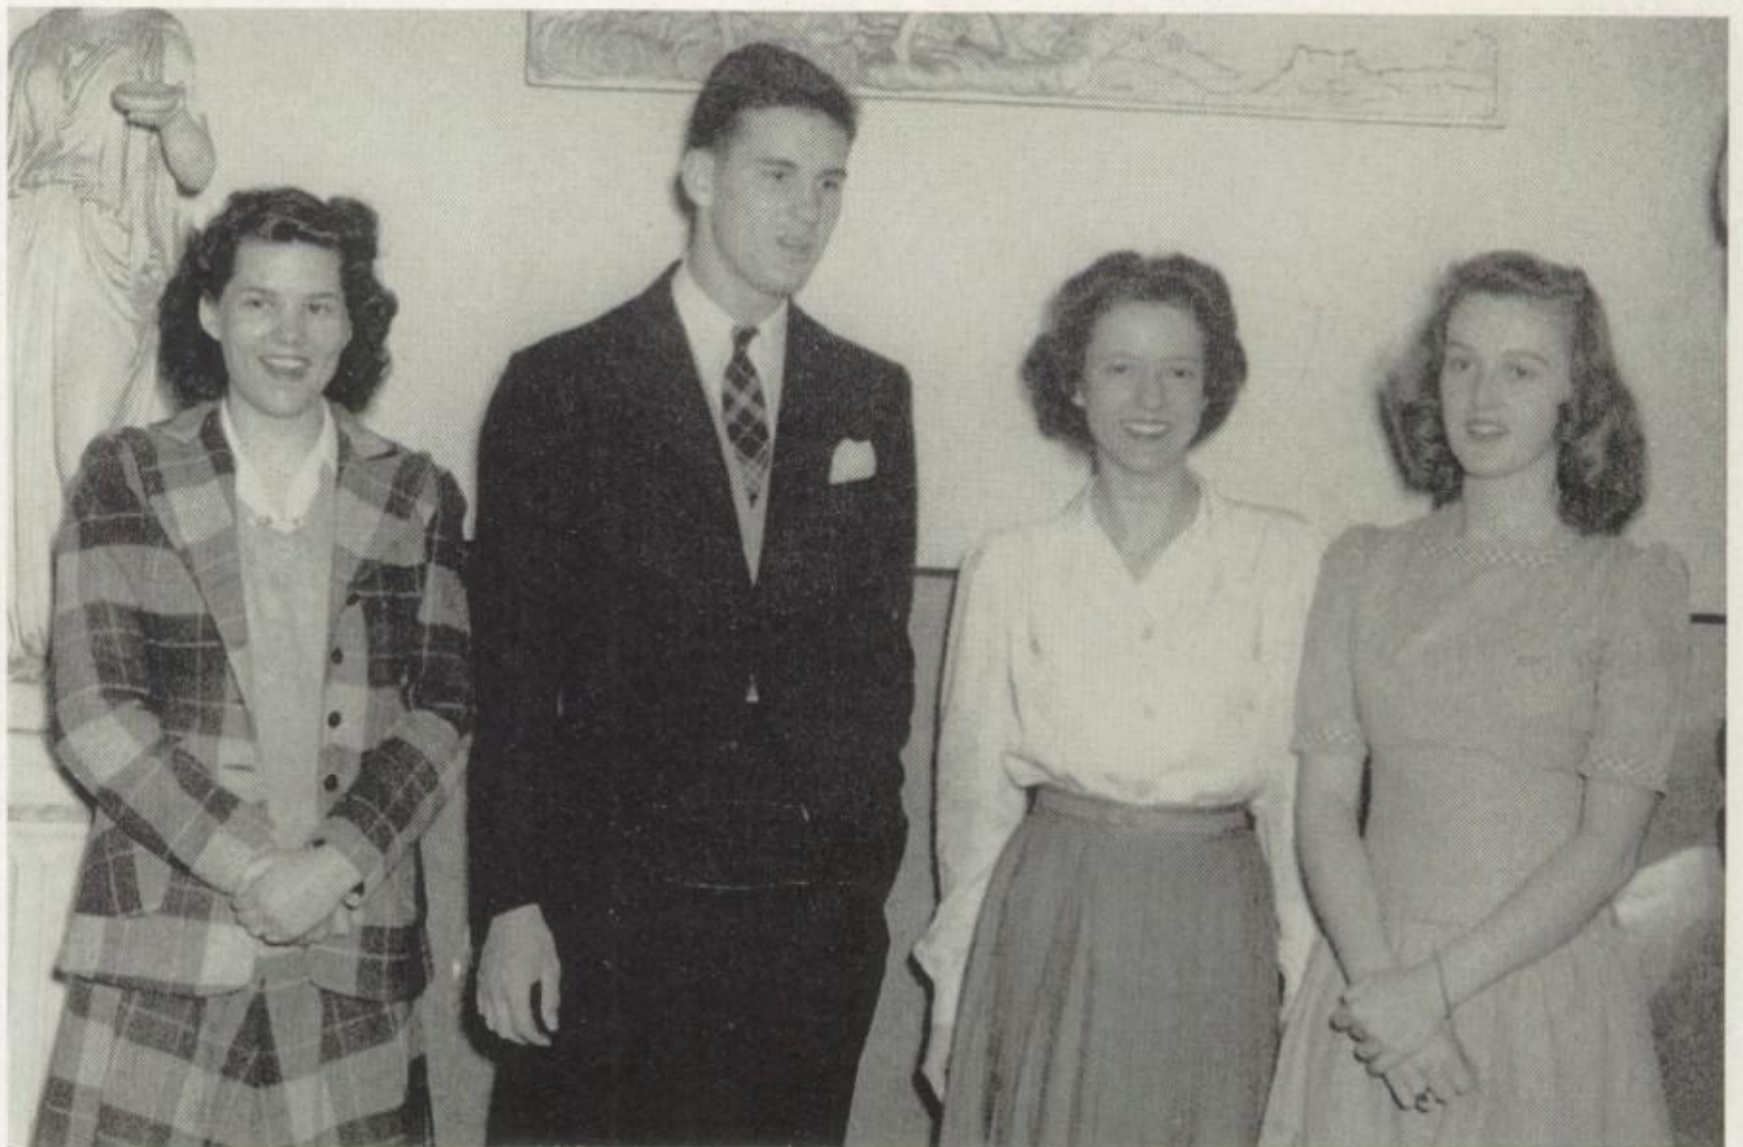

"Grandma (Helen Levy) Pulls the Strings" as McLeod makes love to Markham. Angier escorts Topham to "The Wedding."

Adviser: J. R. WELDON

The Mummers began the year with a bang by electing four outstanding students as officers who have served throughout the year. George McLeod served as president; Julia Dunne, vice-president; Dot Murray, secretary; and Patricia Kelly, treasurer.

Room 305 has literally been packed to the rafters all year long with sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Julia Dunne, Vice-President; George McLeod, President; Dot Murray, Secretary; Patricia Kelly, Treasurer.

The sophomores have played an important part in the success of the Mummers Club this year and proved their worth when they presented the entertaining skit, "The Lamp Went Out." Taking part were Frances Elder, Margaret Crumpler, Gordon Carpenter, Walter Crump, and Emily Boyd. Mary Lou Weatherly was the director.

The club repeated "A Wedding," last year's outstanding student production, to the Friday's assembly.

Programs have been under the direction of Julia Dunne, who has presented a full period's entertainment each time the group met. Members have had an opportunity to interpret lines, practice make-up, try out for roles. "The White Cliffs of Dover," written by Alice Duer Miller and spoken by Lynn Fontanne, will long be remembered by the members.

The highlight of the year was the presentation of "Grandma Pulls the Strings," co-directed by George McLeod and Julia Dunne. In the cast were Helen Levy as Grandma; Margaret Crumpler as Nona, the married sister; Rachel Long as Hildegard; Catherine Markham as Julia; Lillian Smith as Mrs. Cummings; and George McLeod as Mr. Thornton.

Next year's officers have already been elected and include Hal Schroder, Mary Lou Weatherly, Emily Boyd, and Janet Topham as president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively.

The club will miss the large number of fine seniors who are graduating this year but wish them well in their new stations in life.

Adviser: E. C. HESTER

The major undertaking of the Photography Club during the year was a photography contest, which was won by John Kerr. Joseph Algranti was the runner-up, while third place was awarded to Wortham Lyon. Mark Barker and Louis Mitchell received honorable mention. The judge for this contest was Mrs. Paul Gamble, a prominent local photographer.

One of the primary objectives of the club was to acquaint its members with the art of developing and processing photographs. In this, the well-equipped club darkroom served as a frequently-used classroom.

Another aim of the club was the furnishing of snapshots for the MESSENGER, depicting activities around and inside school. The snapshot contest which the MESSENGER conducted, with a copy of the yearbook as a prize, was won by Hulet Burnette, who submitted about fifteen pictures which were used in this book. Joseph Algranti was given special recommendation for his excellent sports action shots.

Spanish Club

Adviser: C. R. BAUCOM

The Spanish Club is the latest organization to join Durham High's varied extracurricular program. With the addition of Spanish to the curriculum this year the need was felt for a club devoted to developing an interest in the language, and as a result this club was organized under the direction of the Spanish teacher, Mr. C. R. Baucom. About thirty students from the two Spanish classes joined.

The club met twice a month, and varied and interesting programs were presented. Since the club was composed of only first-year Spanish students (there being no second-year classes this year), the entire programs could not be given in Spanish, but the majority of the games were played in Spanish.

Some of the various programs this year included games, using Spanish numbers and words, and informative talks on Panama, Mexico, and Christmas in Spain.

Le Cercle Français, which is composed of students who average "A" on French during a semester, had about forty-five members this year. The club met twice a month with the purpose of creating a better understanding and appreciation of France—its language, people, customs and civilization.

Various programs, consisting of puppet shows, games, contests, and short descriptive talks on interesting subjects about historical and current events of France were given at the meetings. However, the main feature this year was the mimeographed publication, "France Libre." Current school news and news about the Free French were featured in this journal. The publication was edited by Beatrice Gross, who was assisted by W. J. Humphries, club adviser, and several other members. It was distributed to the students of all the French classes.

The members also learned popular French songs, some of the more popular of which were "Le Coucou," "Alouette," "Les Crocodiles," and "La Marseillaise." Climaxing the activities of the year, the annual picnic was given. Besides eating, the members enjoyed playing different games and singing French songs.

The club indeed regretted losing Mr. Humphries, who joined the Naval Reserve in March. However, Miss Carolyn Latty stepped into his place and finished the year.

Hi-Y Club

OFFICERS: Tom Cranford, President; Howard Hamilton, Vice-President; Fred Isaacs, Secretary; James Boy, Treasurer; Brower Spransy, Chaplain.

E. L. PHILLIPS
Adviser

Features of the Hi-Y program were the presentation of Phil Messenkopf's Orchestra in the school auditorium, the annual Thanksgiving baskets, the toy round-up before Christmas, the trip of Brower Spransy to the Older Boys' Conference held at Charlotte, and a magazine sales campaign, the profits from which were used to purchase war savings stamps. Paul Peterson, adviser from the Y. M. C. A., left in January, and his place was filled by Robert Thompson.

MEMBERS: first row, H. Denning, B. Stark, J. Allen, D. Black, W. Parker, S. Noell, R. Rogers, D. O'Briant, F. Maness, B. Coman. Second row: J. N. Lasater, W. Smith, D. Landon, F. Isaacs, C. The Phy-Chem Club bought an oscillator this year in order to learn the International Morse Code. Interesting programs showed these students of chemistry or physics the many kinds of United States airplanes and scientific facts pertaining to war. The annual picnic marked the close of the year.

Bobby Wood received a coveted distinction this year. The North Carolina Academy of Science selected him for membership in the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

MEMBERS: L. B. Turner, H. Thornton, J. Parnag, B. Hart, V. C. Jones, F. Ellis, R. O'Steen, E. Gilliam, C. Braswell, H. Bragg, J. Sally, M. Long, J. Eubanks, M. J. Whitfield, M. Ridenhour, M. Lougee, Albert Rigsbee.

Club

The Commercial Club, the largest organization in the school, is open only to those students who are taking commercial subjects. Its importance is emphasized in the present emergency when there is a great demand for commercial workers of all types. So far as is known, not one graduate of the Commercial Department is without work.

The excellence of the department is shown by the record set in the state commercial contest. In last year's contest, the results of which were announced in late June, Durham High took four individual first places and two team firsts. The total results were: second-year bookkeeping, Sarah Page, first place; Freeman Fulbright, second place; Clara Belle Scott, third place; commercial law, Floyd Jones, first place; Evelyn Katz, third place; general business, Ted Bloom, first place; second-year shorthand, Dorothy Sugg, second place; first-year bookkeeping, Mary James, first place.

Teams winning state honors were: second-year bookkeeping, first; commercial law, first; general business, second; first-year bookkeeping, second; second-year typewriting, second; second-year shorthand, second.

Club

As is the annual custom, the Commercial Club joined with the Coöp Class in presenting the Coroso play. This year's play, "Turn to the Right," was again directed by Mr. Bailey Hobgood (see page 160). The profits, about fifty dollars, were divided between the two organizations equally.

The club has charge of one assembly program each year. This year Dr. D. E. Earnhardt, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, spoke to the Tuesday assembly on April 7 in perhaps the best auditorium program of the year. Dr. Earnhardt mixed laughter and sound advice in palatable proportions, and everyone left feeling that he had gained much from the interesting address.

An unusual club program was a mock wedding in which Shirley Harton was the bride and Tom Cranford the groom.

A special division of the Commercial Club, the Public Speaking Club, is the only organization in Durham High devoted entirely to the development of speaking ability, poise, and coolness on the floor. Its members, also members of the Commercial Club, learn the secrets of clear and fluent self-expression under the direction of W. P. Dillingham.

Coaches: MRS. BELLE C. GHOLSON, MR. E. L. PHILLIPS

After a preliminary elimination round, debating on the subject, "Resolved, that a union of western hemisphere nations should be established," two affirmative and two negative debate teams went to Greensboro on December 5 for a practice tournament, winning eleven and losing five debates. A second preliminary followed, after which the team was chosen: affirmative, Beatrix Gross and Walter Cannon; negative, Robinson Everett and Charles Markham; alternates, Mildred Byers and Frank Pierson.

In the Aycock triangular debates, the affirmative defeated Raleigh's negative team, but the negative lost to Fayetteville's affirmative, thus eliminating the school from further defense of the Aycock cup won last year.

Next the team entered the North Carolina Speech and Debate Tournament held at Wake Forest College, April 2-4. The debate team won four out of eight contests, with each side taking two and dropping two debates. The affirmative registered wins over Wilson and Charlotte, losing to Greensboro and Fayetteville, while the negative topped Asheville and Charlotte, bowing to Wilson and Fayetteville. In individual speech contests, Charles Markham, a finalist in declamation, won the state championship in impromptu speaking. Walter Cannon took the state crown in extempore speaking and also was rated as one of the best ten debaters in the entire tournament.

In the annual American Legion oratorical contest, Markham took first place in the school competition, with Cannon in second place, but Cannon won both the county and district contests, being eliminated at High Point in the area contest.

Nature Study Club

Adviser: MISS DOROTHY WILSON

The varied programs of the Nature Study Club were planned so as to show the members a few glimpses of the many fields of service into which they may enter. Each member was encouraged to have a scientific project, such as an outdoor terrarium, permanent microscope shades, a well-balanced aquarium, the study of pollen, or the growing of flowers with chemicals.

Lantern slides on forestry gave the club much information about the great North Carolina forests, while demonstrations showed how to make dish gardens. Especially interesting was a talk on the electron microscope, the most powerful detector of minute bodies yet invented. This instrument, by using a stream of electrons instead of light beams, can make visible viruses formerly invisible.

A report from the Consumers' Research Laboratories gave the members many tips on where and how to shop for medicines and cosmetics so as to get the best values for the least money.

An interesting lecture by a Chinese missionary made the club realize many aspects of life in China. Two picnics gave the members some fun along with their learning.

Among the many projects completed by the Art Club the preparation of tree decorations and toys for the under-privileged of the city was perhaps the most interesting. At the monthly work periods each member worked on that phase of art in which he was interested, while at the remaining monthly meetings the programs consisted of special speakers, movies, and exhibits, the most unusual of which were those of Elizabeth White.

Library Club

Adviser: MISS FLORINE LEWTER

Anyone who visits the Durham High School Library observes the important part that the student assistants, who compose the Library Club, play in the life of the library and also in the life of the school as a whole. But the student body and the teachers cannot appreciate their value to library service as much as Miss Florine Lewter, the librarian. She alone can testify to what extent the Library Club members make the wheels go 'round.

Student assistants contribute their time amounting to about one period per day to the routine work in the library such as circulation, shelving, typing, checking mail, collecting overdue books and fines, arranging exhibits, filing and preparing new books for the shelves. In addition they learn to use the reference tools in the library such as the card catalog, the arrangement of books on the shelves, the use of encyclopedias and other special reference books, the Readers' Guide, etc., which knowledge helps them in assisting their fellow students in reference work and in selection of books for pleasure reading.

The members of the club volunteer their services to the library because they are interested in library work as a possible career, or because they enjoy the work and choose the club as one of their activities. And while giving assistance and service to the library and the school, they also receive training in use of books and in Library Science.

The club meets twice each month at which time programs varying from the literary and instructional to the social are enjoyed.

Advisers: MISS MARGUERITE HERR, MISS VIRGINIA HOBGOOD

The members of the Junior Needlework Guild, an auxiliary of the Durham Needlework Guild, gathered 1,132 new, warm, useful garments for the eleventh ingathering since its founding in 1931. The garments were given to underprivileged children of pre-school age. These garments were displayed at Durham High on October 31, and at the Washington Duke Hotel on November 4.

The organization meeting was held in October in order to discuss the purpose and program of the Junior Guild for the new members. Jane Watkins, president of the Guild, presided at this meeting. Mrs. H. C. Horack, president, and Mrs. J. A. Speed of the Senior Guild spoke.

In November, the forty-five directors were again guests at the annual tea at the Hope Valley Country Club. At this time, the directors presented a skit, "Lest We Forget," written by Marge Hundley, which dramatized the necessity of the organization.

A highlight of this year was the organization of a Junior Guild in Chapel Hill by the officers of the Durham Junior Needlework Guild directors. In this meeting the duties of the officers, the kinds of garments needed, and the purpose of the club were discussed by the girls and by the two advisers, Miss Marguerite Herr and Miss Virginia Hobgood.

The directors chosen from among the junior and senior members are each responsible for ten other girls and a money member. To become a member of the Guild, each girl is required to give two new garments for children under two years. Boys do their share by contributing to the shoe fund, which amounted to $17.61 this year. Each graduate who has served as a director will be presented with the Guild pin on Awards Day.

The Aviation Club, whose main purpose is to further interest and increase knowledge in aircraft, directed its attention this year toward furnishing Durham's quota of model warplanes for government war purposes. The government supplied the boys with blueprints of current airplanes of the belligerent powers, and asked them to build exact scale model replicas. These miniature planes are to be used for aiding gunners and pilots in recognizing friendly and enemy aircraft from a distance. Precise standards had to be followed, and many models were rejected because of inaccurate dimensions or faulty construction.

Official titles were given to those who successfully completed a specified number and size of airplanes, and certificates of distinction signed by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox were presented to those who won such titles. Though the production of small pursuit ships like the German Messerschmidt 109E, the British "Spitfire," and the American Bell "Airacobra," was the most rapid, some ambitious builders tackled the huge four-motored bombers, especially the far-famed Boeing B-17E "Flying Fortress."

With much satisfactory work completed, Mr. H. K. Collins, adviser to the club, sent several groups of planes to Washington.

Current Events Club

Adviser: MRS. BELLE C. GHOLSON

"Information please," was the key-note of the Current Events Club this year. At roll-call every meeting each member responded to his name with a brief current event or happening. The main body of the program consisted of discussions about the current news, with newspapers, magazines, radio reports, pamphlets, and all other available sources of news serving as the basis. Frequent panel groups and several interesting and humorous debates served to promote interest and to encourage every member to express himself fluently and naturally to the group many times during the year.

"Ma," as Mrs. Gholson is affectionately called by her students and friends, tried to have the younger boys take as much part in the programs as the seniors, and after an initiation, with the incoming sophomores as the honor "guests," served to break the ice, the participants were fairly equally distributed among all three classes.

On May 27 the club held a picnic at Hollow Rock. Hot dogs and "Pepsi's" were enjoyed by all. As a finale, at commencement a medal was awarded by vote of the club to that senior who had proved himself the most outstanding member of the club.

The Brogden Society made progress toward a larger and better organization in 1941-42, with more self-expression by the individual members. Spirited elections showed an interest in practicing self-government. The two presidents, Jean Bagwell for the first semester and Frances Durham for the second, provided leadership in encouraging each member to take part in several programs during the year.

In round-table talks the society constitution, school regulations, graduation, student traffic laws, and similar subjects were discussed. Professor José Jimenez Borja, consultant on education to the government of Peru, spoke to the group at one meeting on "The Freedom of Peru." In all their programs the girls tried to bring out the true facts about controversial issues to live up to their motto, "The Truth Shall Make You Free."

Blackwell Literary Society

Adviser: E. L. PHILLIPS

An initiation of thirty new members inaugurated a colorful year for the members of the Blackwell Literary Society. Camp Sacarusa was the scene of the merry-making event.

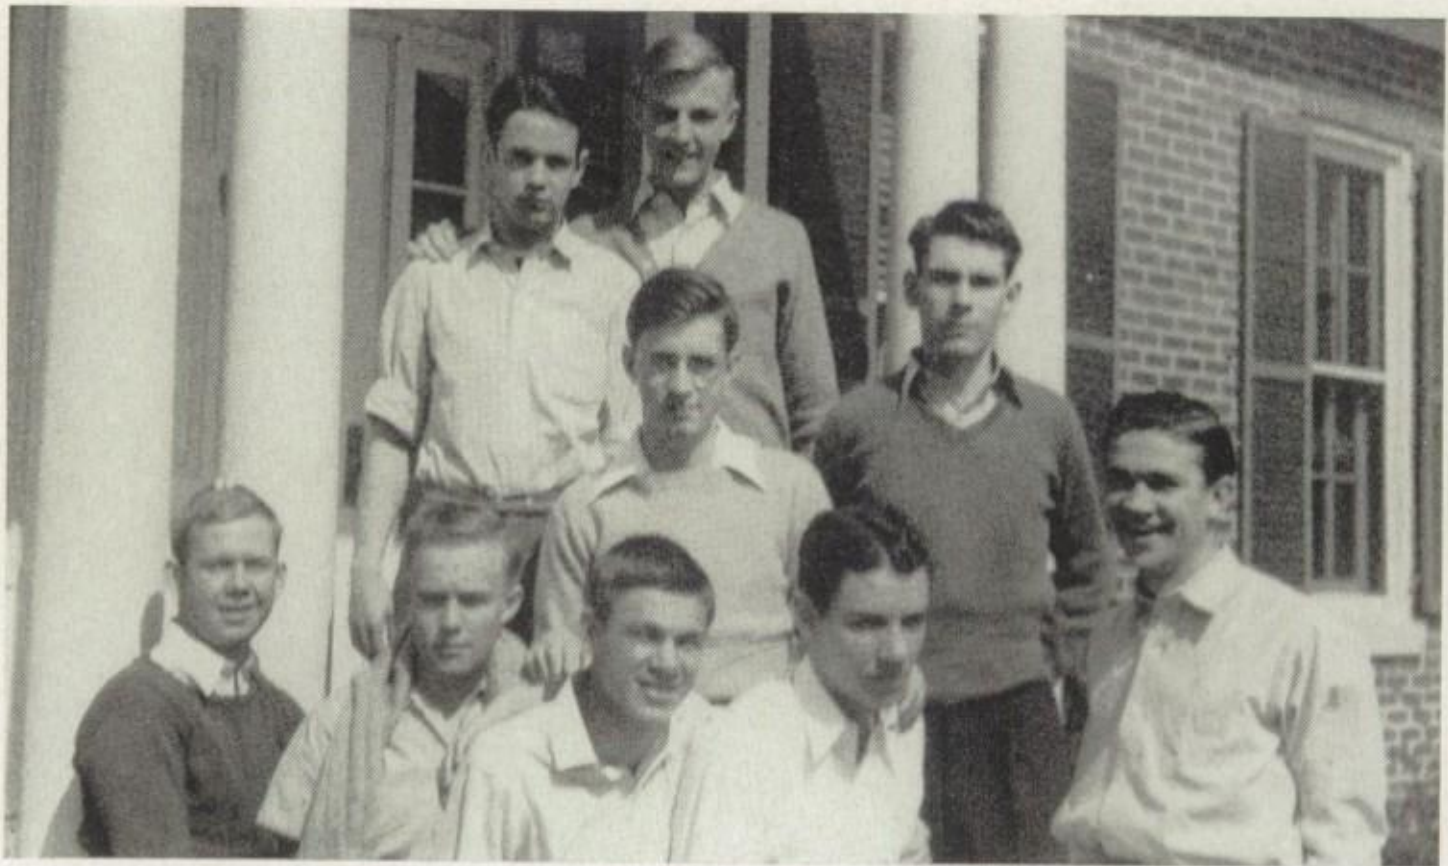

The Blackwell boys had the honor of being the first literary group to purchase a war bond. Each member contributed thirty cents towards the buying of a $25 bond, which will be used on maturity to buy a plaque as a memorial to Durham High boys killed in the present war.

Several distinguished speakers appeared before the group. Especially interesting was Professor José Jimenez Borja, professor of education at San Mario University in Lima, Peru, who addressed the group on South American preparedness and the relations of the Latin Americans with the United States.

A cabin party at Camp Sacarusa brought the year to a close. Baseball, badminton, and horseshoe pitching entertained the more athletic members and their dates, while other couples danced to the music of phonograph records.

The members of the Cornelia Spencer Literary Society, the largest girls' society in the school, tried to achieve high standards in literature, readings, and social activities. In the early fall the new members in the society were initiated at a party given in their honor in the high-school cafeteria, at which interesting games and exciting contests were held.

During the year many entertaining programs were presented. Miss Query, the new Bible teacher, was the outstanding guest speaker, discussing the topic, "Letters."

The policy of the society is to have every member have a part on at least one program. Each class, led by an appointed chairman, had charge of one program, and each proved very interesting. According to custom the society awarded a medal to the girl who had done the best all-around work during the year. Spencer girls took the usual interest in the Woman's Club Reading Contest which is given each year during commencement.

Walter Hines Page Literary Society

Adviser: MISS MARGUERITE HERR

Members of the Walter Hines Page Society have just brought to a close a year filled with varied activity, under the leadership of Douglas Ausbon, president, and Miss Marguerite M. Herr, adviser. Highlight of the society's activities during 1941-42 was the broadcast over Radio Station WDNC in the "To Durham's Schools" radio series—the first Durham High literary society meeting ever to be presented on the air. The program for the broadcast centered around the activities of Page members in the nation's war effort. Speakers also emphasized the challenge today of Walter Hines Page, patron saint of the organization and ambassador to Great Britain during the First World War.

The outstanding program of those presented at the regular semi-monthly meetings occurred when Professor Walter J. Seeley, of the Duke College of Engineering, discussed "Engineering as a Profession" in an informative and interesting talk. On many of the other programs society members appeared and gained valuable experience in public speaking.

Although each member aided individually in the war effort through participation in the civilian defense program and through purchase of war bonds and stamps, the society took action as a group and canceled its annual initiation and banquet, appropriating the funds collected for those purposes for the purchase of a war bond.

Sacrifice of the initiation and banquet, annually the highlights of the year, is only one indication that Page members are ready to serve their country in any possible way.

O. Henry Literary Society

MISS LOUISE HORNER
Adviser

For the first time in six years the O. Henry Literary Society was forced to cancel its arrangements for the Mother-Daughter Banquet, due to the war. At one of the most memorable meetings of the year, the question of the betterment of school publications was heatedly debated and abandoned as too difficult for mere students to decide.

Southgate Literary Society

MISS BELLE HAMPTON
Adviser

The Southgate Literary Society, under the direction of Miss Belle Hampton, began the year with a combination social and initiation. During the year the varied programs included quiz contests, recitations, short plays, and "sings." A new constitution was drawn up for the society. The feature speaker of the year was Mrs. Parker, a missionary from India, who spoke on the life and culture of Central India.

OFFICERS: Fred Isaacs, Treasurer; Bill Gooch, Chaplain; Aubrey Tingen, Secretary; Ralph Rogers, President, Vice-President; Tom McCauley, President, Vice-President; Bill Coman, Secretary.

J. D. SHIELDS
Adviser

Speeches and debates were featured on the programs of the Carr Literary Society in an effort to improve the oratorical ability of each member. The main social event of the year proved to be the annual banquet at which W. G. Whichard, former adviser of the society, was guest speaker, telling "How Germany and Japan Prepared for the Present Struggle."

Annie E. Tillett Literary Society

MISS LUCY THOMSON
Adviser

Emphasizing the Bible, the Tillett Literary Society heard this topic discussed by two speakers, Dr. John T. Wayland and Miss Frances Query.

Other activities included the gift of a book to the school library and the study of Edgar Allan Poe and his poetry.

The death of Miss Lucy Thomson, society adviser, in an automobile accident on May 4, came as a severe blow to all the members.

Athena Literary Society

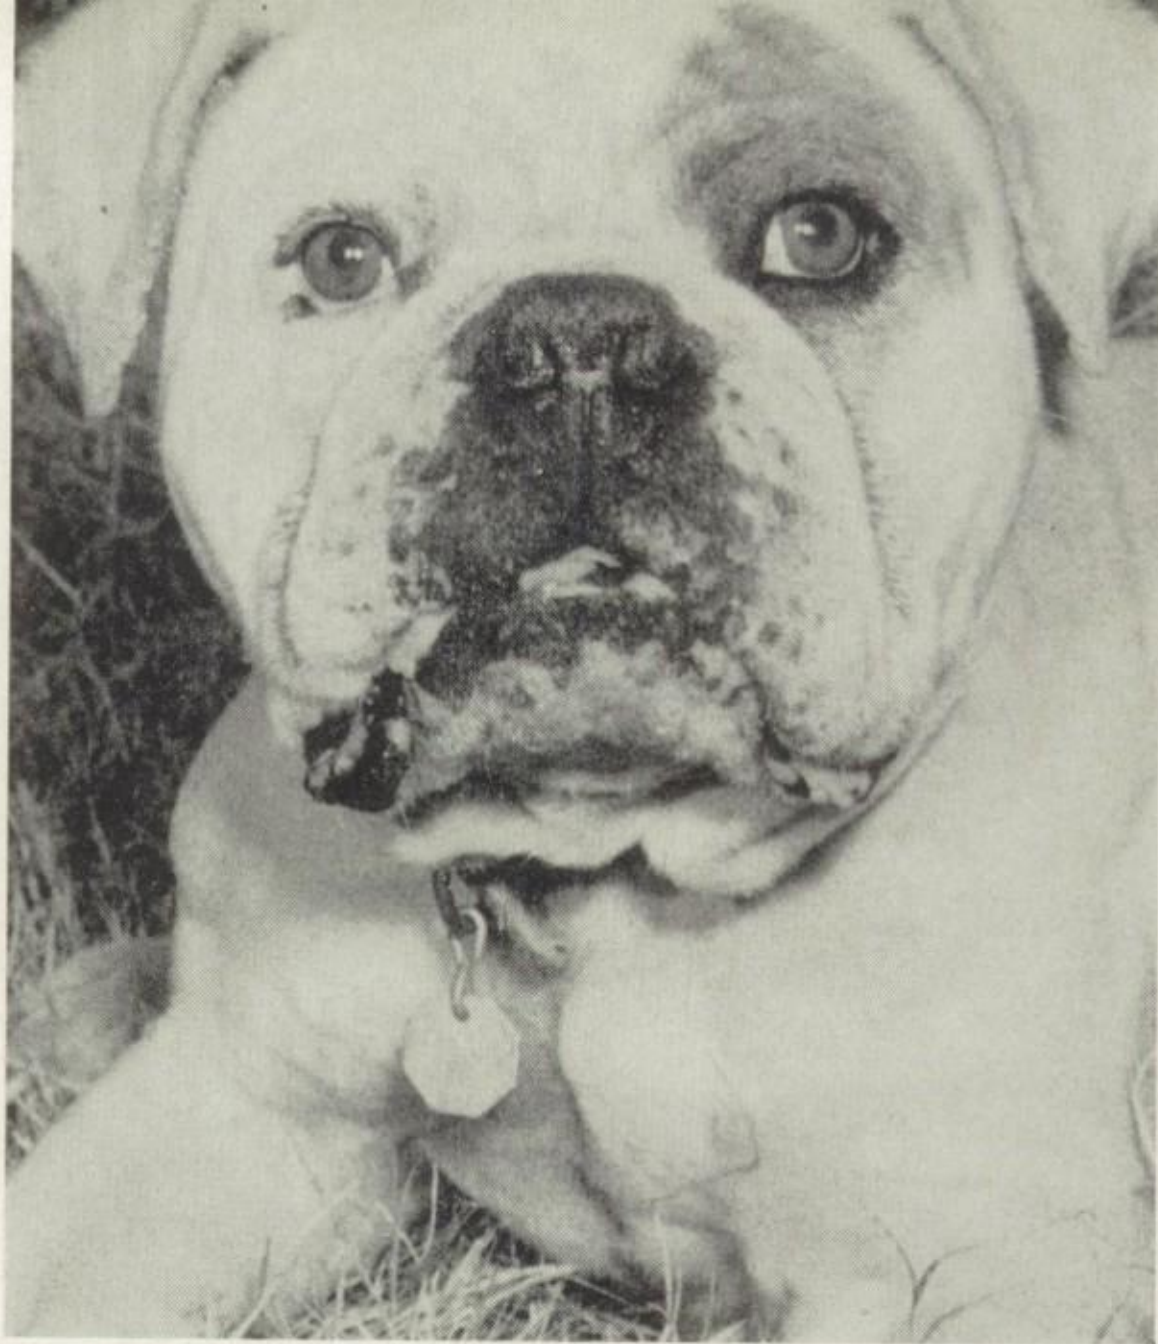

MISS VIRGINIA HOBGOOD
Adviser

Loyal to their patron Athena, goddess of wisdom and learning, the Athena Literary Society stressed the cultural benefits of fine literature this year. The members also gained experience in parliamentary procedure and in making talks and reports before a group. Debates, as, for example, one on the query, "Resolved, that the United States and South America should join forces during the duration of the war," developed quick thinking and poise.

Coach: CAREY L. BREWBAKER

Led by the two co-captains, George McLeod and Harvey Renn, the Durham High Bulldogs rang up five victories, four defeats, and one tie in the 1941 season. Head Coach Carey L. Brewbaker, assisted by Nick Warren and Paul Sykes, built his attack around Renn's flat passes, backed by the running of McLeod and the sophomore flash, Don Tilley. When the passes clicked, the Bulldogs were hot; but on off days the offence sagged. In several games the combination of Renn-to-Barnes saved the day, but sometimes the short passes, working smoothly only in the last quarter, couldn't gain enough ground in a short time and the Bulldogs bit the dust.

Manager BRADLEY HENDERSON

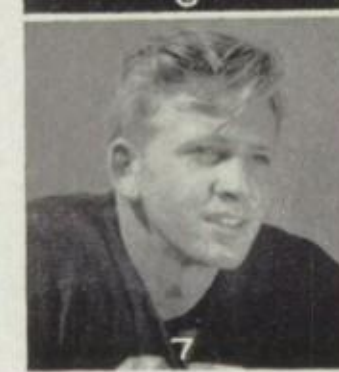

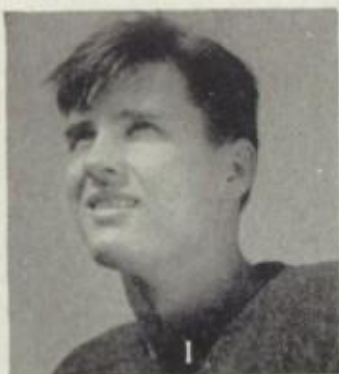

The team opened its 1941 season with triumphs over Roxboro High 14-0, and later over Oxford Orphanage 20-13. These victories were due largely to the smooth passing attack of the Bulldogs. A week later Coach Brewbaker's boys crushed the Harding High School of Charlotte 40-0. In the next game Durham lost 7-0 to the High Point Bisons who finished the season as 1941 state champions. This contest was followed by another loss to Greensboro High School 21-0. A 14-14 tie with Charles Coon High of Wilson ended the losing streak. However, in the following game the Bulldogs made the trip to Rocky Mount, losing there by a score of 13-7. The Durham boys returned to the winning track with a victory over Portsmouth, Va., 15-12. Later, Raleigh, the traditional Durham rival, tripped the Bulldogs 13-0. The season was concluded on Thanksgiving Day with a 26-20 win over New Hanover High of Wilmington.

Coaches: J. D. SHIELDS, NICK WARREN

Hit hard by the graduation of seven players from last year's state championship nine, Coaches J. D. Shields and Nick Warren built up a baseball machine which at times played brilliant ball but which lacked the consistency needed to win honors again. The team took only three of its conference games, looking impressive, however, in its defeat of the league-leading Wilson Cyclones.

Sparking the outfit were Captain Sydney Levy, who played third base, Catcher Brinkley Dunnegan, and Wallace Rhodes, second-baseman and leading hitter on the team with an average of .478 for the season. In the pitching department Claude Weldon took two and dropped two conference games, while George Whitted won one contest and lost two.

Charlie Miller, business head of the Durham Bulls, Piedmont League champions last year, solved the Bulldogs' transportation difficulties, which might have cut short the schedule, by lending the Bulls' bus to the high-school diamond team for their out-of-town trips.

Coach Hester, Roy Greene, Jimmie Dezern, Percy Ray, H. B. Weaver, Billy Wingate, John Kerr, James Waller.

Coach: E. C. HESTER

Durham High's golf team, coached by E. C. Hester, although having to start from scratch, came through the season with a good record. There was only one letter man, H. B. Weaver, returning to the team.

The individual high scorer was Jimmie Dezern, of Junior High, with ten points. Next was H. B. Weaver, also from Junior High, with eight. The rest of the team and their total points won are: Captain James Waller, seven; Roy Greene, five; Percy Ray, one; Billy Wingate, one-half; and John Kerr, who did not play.

Although in its scheduled meets the team split even, winning two and dropping two contests, it came in fourth in the state tournament held at Chapel Hill in which thirteen teams participated. Raleigh won first place, but several days later the Hugh Morson High team came to Durham and lost to the D. H. S. boys.

Mr. Hester was just molding the green recruits into a well-balanced team when the schedule had to be cut short because of transportation difficulties.

Jimmie Dezern and James Waller won letters, and H. B. Weaver received a star.

Tennis

First row: Joe Algranti, Tom Fowler, Judson Pickett, Hall Miles, Sam Latty. Second row: Joe Allen, manager, Judson Burgess, Turner Bright, Donald Ross, Jimmy Kelly, Coach Sykes.

Coach: P. G. SYKES

Although faced by the loss of three lettermen, the Durham High School tennis team nevertheless began a very successful season. Ably coached by Paul Sykes, D. H. S. mentor of basketball and football, the team displayed impressive strength in their first two matches, defeating Chapel Hill 9-0 and Danville 5-4. In the Southern Interscholastic meet Captain Jimmie Kelly, number one singles, advanced to the semi-finals, and the doubles team of Turner Bright and Tom Fowler gained the quarter finals before they were downed.

Since the MESSENGER goes to press before the regular tennis season is over, the scores of the final matches cannot be presented. However, starting off with such success, the team is expected to make a fine record in its interscholastic competition. Members of the 1942 team are: Captain Jimmie Kelly, Turner Bright, Don Ross, Tom Fowler, Judson Pickett, Sam Latty, Joe Algranti, Judson Burgess, Hall Miles, and Joe Allen, manager.

McLeod shows prize-winning form; relay team—McLeod, Lucas, Brewer, Ausbon; Ausbon makes four-point landing.

Track

Coach: C. R. BAUCOM

The Durham High track team, paced by high-scoring Doug Ausbon, scored a number of impressive victories during the year, losing none of its dual conference meets. The season opened with the Carolina Indoor Meet in which the Durham boys took third place. D. H. S. then scored a $74\frac{1}{2}$ - $42\frac{1}{2}$ victory over Lynchburg and placed seventh in the Duke Invitational Meet.

The speedsters won the Eastern Conference title handily by earning $46\frac{1}{2}$ points to out-distance their nearest competitors, Fayetteville. They also took second place in the state meet, scoring $33\frac{1}{2}$ points.

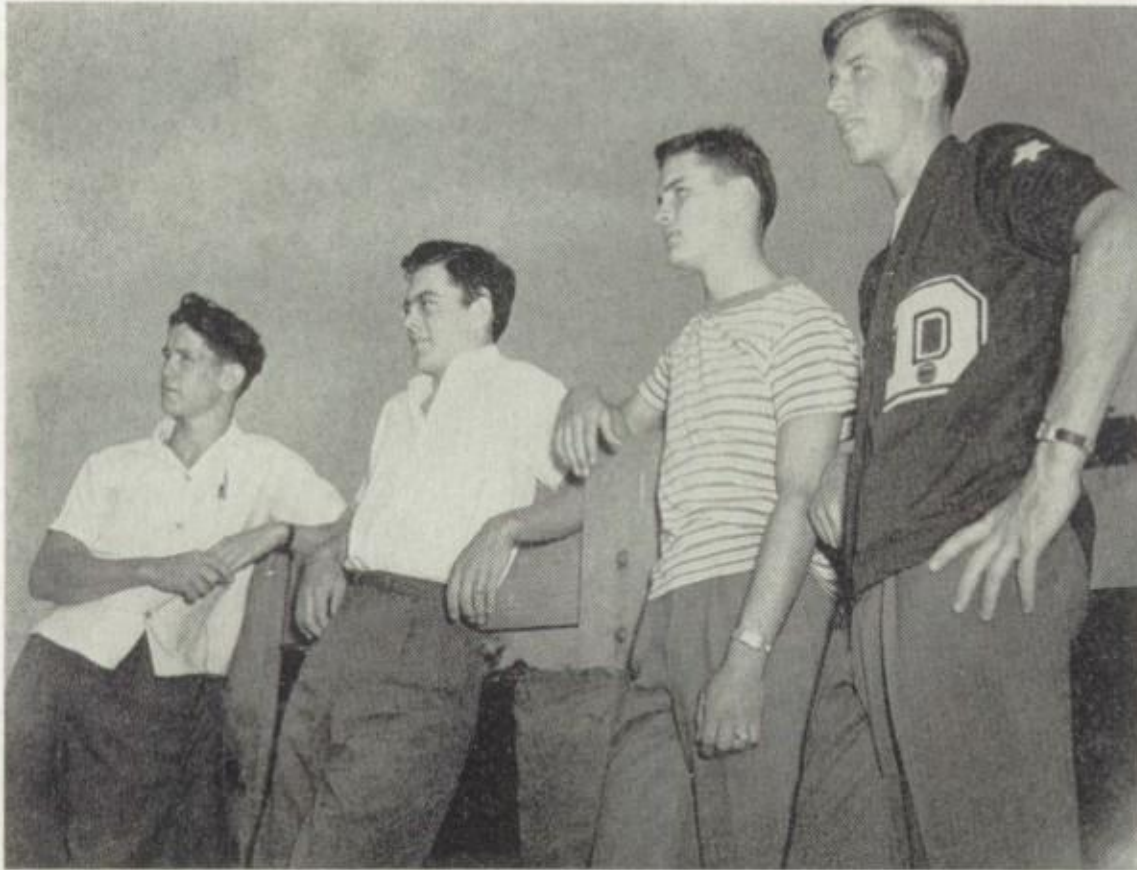

First row: T. Upchurch, H. Thornton, B. Kerr, J. Ross, B. Sunas, M. Yarbrough, S. Lucas, D. Chesson, Coach Baucom. Second row: E. Lougee, T. Fowler, J. Duhling, C. Brewer, G. Whitted, E. Jones, P. Boys' Monogram Club

OFFICERS: Earl Jones, Chaplain; Harvey Renn, President; George McLeod, Treasurer; Kenneth Turner, Vice-President.

PAUL G. SYKES
Adviser

The Boys' Monogram Club is composed of boys who have won a "D" in any sport. The activities of the year included helping in the Duke-Durham Tournament and sponsoring Vince Courtney's orchestra. The members, representing the spirit of fair play both on and off the athletic field, ended the year with a social at the Forest Hill Country Club. This marked the completion of a successful year, and was a farewell party for the seniors.

MEMBERS: first row, C. Weldon, H. Renn, R. Walton, C. Brewer, J. N. Lasater, J. Kelly, W. Johnson, E. Jones, E. Lougee, J. Woodall. Second row: H. D. Sykes, B. Dunnegan, C. Wetherington, R. OFFICERS: Edith Hessee, Vice-President; Dot Smith, Treasurer; Charlotte Puckett, President; Ella Mae Hessee, Secretary.

Sponsoring all intramural tournaments for girls is only one of many tasks carried out by the Girls' Monogram Club, for its members are leaders in every form of athletic recreation. Those girls who have earned two hundred points by engaging in various sports and athletic events receive letters and are eligible for membership. Further points bring additional rewards in the shape of stars and "N. C." letters.

MEMBERS: first row, F. Carr, B. J. Price, D. Frederick, E. Harris, H. Fogleman, G. Anderson, M. R. Suitt, H. Holloman, C. Puckett, A. Hobbs, B. White, D. Murray, E. Hayes, A. Earp, M. LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

NO SUPERLATIVES

Sirs:

I notice that this year no senior superlatives have been voted on to be presented in the MESSENGER. Usually we have six: popular, executive, representative, athletic, artistic, and studious, with a boy and girl elected by the senior class for each category. Why weren't these chosen this year?

Also, what about May Day and the May Queen?

JUDSON BURGESS

* Superlatives were dropped this year as juvenile, meaningless, unfair. Some (i.e., studious) were looked upon by certain sections of the student body as more of a disgrace than an honor. Too often one person would win two or more titles, would either have to be over-featured or have the second highest take his place. This year only two people were chosen, the boy and girl outstanding in every respect. In this way a full story can be given of their activities (see page 164), much more interesting than just one posed picture.

May Day was canceled by school officials because of the war.—ED.

COVER

Sirs:

Red and white are the school colors, yet the cover of the MESSENGER this year is blue and white. Why so?

CHARLES MARKHAM

* The MESSENGER has no tradition of having the school colors on its cover, though red and white have been used for the past two years. The staff thought a change was needed this year.—ED.

NEXT YEAR?

Sirs:

Neither the Hi-Rocket nor the MESSENGER seems to have been affected by the war this year, but there are shortages of several vital materials: paper, copper, zinc, type metal, etc. In view of these, will the publications continue next year?

FRANCES AIRHEART

* Crippled this year mainly in the pocketbook, both Hi-Rocket and MESSENGER will be hard hit next year. Much depends on the war situation and whether WPB clamps down on nonessential supplies. Local firms have enough materials on hand to do business next year, and there is a great pile of old reclaimable copper and zinc in the school storeroom. Safe prediction is: if no drastic changes take place in civilian consumption, both publications will appear next year, smaller and less expensive.—ED.

TRADITION BROKEN

Sirs:

A great tradition will be broken next year. The editor of the Hi-Rocket will not be a public speaker. John Carr in 1940, Harris Proctor last year, and Charles Markham this year, all were editors, all were outstanding bull-shooters for "Ma" Gholson. But next year John Kerr will pursue his editorship unscarred by priority fights between "Ma" and Miss Herr.

THESE EXTRA SNAPS HAVE NO PLACE IN

CAN'T BE OMITTED
—THEY ARE TOO GOOD

For the first time ever, the MESSENGER this year had too many good snapshots submitted by student photographers. Most of them are in the main section of Life, but for six no place in any layout could be found. The six are on these two pages. They have no connection with each other; they simply are six pictures made at random showing school life.

Action photography for the MESSENGER has been unusually good as well as plentiful this year. Art Rickcrby, a professional, made the football action shots and several pictures for Life. Five student photographers contributed the rest: Hulet Burnette, Judson Burgess, Joseph Algranti, John Kerr, and Harold Denning. Denning took pictures of the band on parade and one of work on model airplanes. Among Kerr's work were two shots of the Junior-Senior Social and the picture of Life's photographers. Algranti specialized in track action shots.

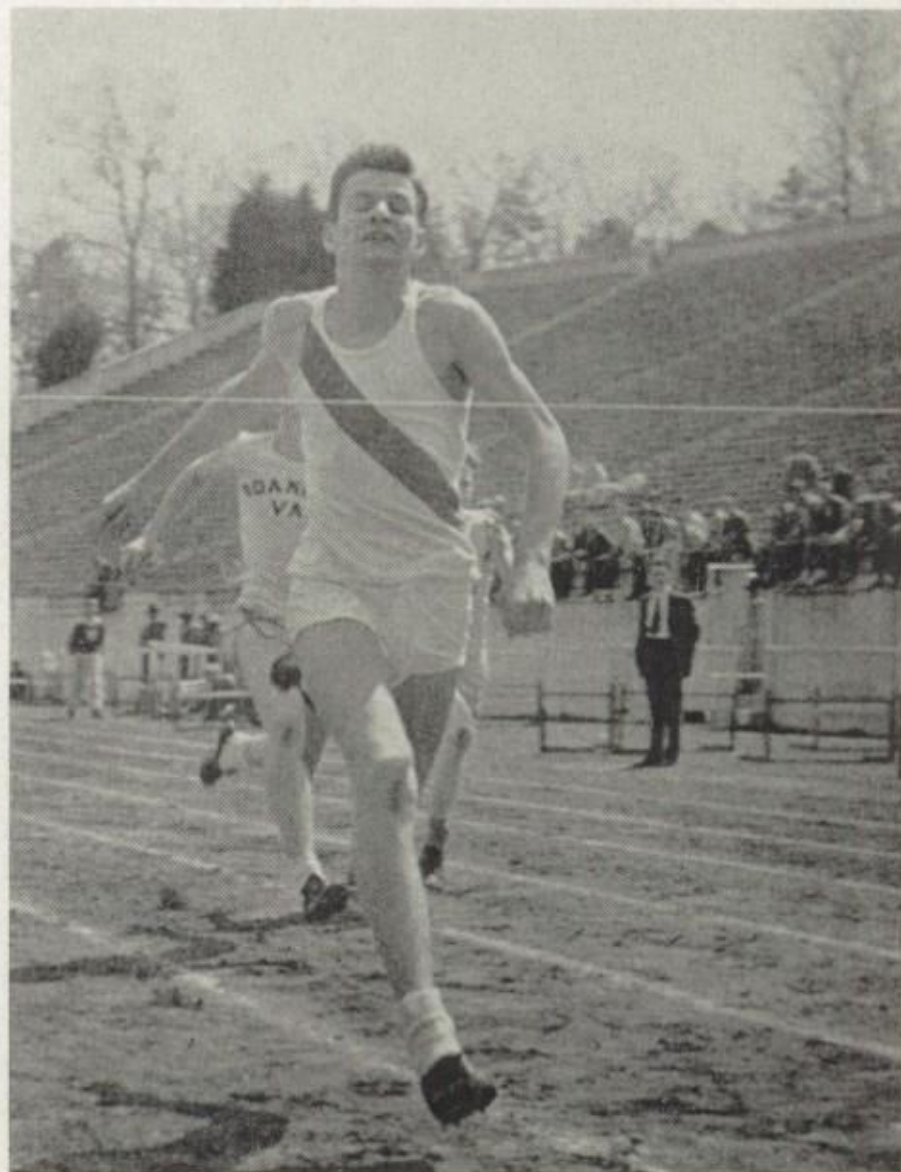

Bulk of the pictures, however, were shot by Burgess and Burnette. Burgess, using the Speed Graphic camera of the Herald-Sun papers, took several layouts during the winter and early spring: basketball, action shots, most pictures of the Junior-Senior Social, photos of the swing band and of the medical examination. Later in the spring Burnette bought his own Speed Graphic and completed Life: cover, layout on the war, picture of the year, senior play, Cranford and Murray, and several other pictures.

Durham High band, with high-stepping Ed Levy in the lead, parades down Main Street before a big football home game.

Ed "Stuff" Sharpe takes a "ride" on his hot trumpet when Durham High "Hi-Hatters" play. Ed always uses handkerchief.

First again, speedy Doug Ausbon, co-captain of the track team, breaks tape at Duke Stadium well ahead of all competitors.

"Andrews Sisters" cavort at Coroso play and Coöp social. The three boys keep time to phonograph music by the real sisters.

At fashion show Miss Louise Berry shows Home Economics girls how to adjust neckpiece on one of the patterns she is selling.

In only sizeable snow of the year, students walk to school on icy streets. The high school is three blocks away. Charles Amis, in the foreground, must have forgotten something, since he is heading in the wrong direction, away from the school.

SHOPS HOLD REGULAR CLASSES DURING DAY, TRAIN WORKERS FOR DEFENSE JOBS AT NIGHT AND ON WEEK-ENDS

BLOW OF WAR MAKES NUMEROUS CHANGES IN DURHAM HIGH

Aviation enthusiast builds model airplanes for the government. They are used for identification purposes in training gunners.

DECEMBER 7 affected Durham High just as it did the rest of the country. Immediate reaction was anger and certainty of victory without much difficulty, but this soon wore off as the school plunged in to do its part.

After a half-year, much progress has been made. Each class as a whole has invested about $200 in War Bonds, and sales to individuals took a sharp jump with the signing in May of pledges to buy war stamps regularly. Senior and junior boys were given a complete physical examination; compulsory physical education for seniors has begun. Seventy-eight boys have trained as auxiliary firemen; more as fire watchers. High school Boy Scouts work as messengers at the local control center and drill regularly in first aid. Home Economics girls make bandages for the Red Cross as a required part of their program.

Teachers, too, are doing their part. Three have already joined the armed forces, while several more expect to leave this summer. Rationing of sugar and of gasoline fell upon the teachers' shoulders in May; further work of this sort is expected as more shortages develop.

All of this, however, is only a foretaste of what the high school will probably be called upon to do in the future.

Carey L. Brewbaker, head football coach, joined Gene Tunney's physical-fitness unit of the navy. His place is still vacant.

War Hits Durham High (cont'd)

A DIRECT effect of the war was the loss of the three teachers at the left. All were popular; all left many friends. More widespread was the training of over a hundred boys as fire watchers. Their duties are to report fires in their districts during an air-raid. A smaller group were made auxiliary firemen after many hours of instruction (right), with the job of helping the regular firemen in case of an attack. One group is assigned to each fire station and all its members report there when an air-raid alert is sounded. In the city's first black-out the performance of both groups was praised by city officials.

English teacher and swimming coach William Coble took an Army Reserve Corps commission of second lieutenant on March 27.

Home Ec girls make over old clothes instead of using materials now unobtainable. Girl in background is re-dyeing an apron.

Popular, able William J. Humphries left his French classes for an ensign's commission in Class V-7, U. S. Naval Reserve.

At Red Cross center Leila Taylor, Elizabeth Capps, Lorraine Harris, and Mary Boney make dressings for Home Ec course.

Fire chief Frank Bennett demonstrates how booster pump on small fire truck operates as auxiliary firemen gather around.

Boys lay a line of hose from demonstration fire hydrant while Lieutenant Cox gives pointers on fastest, surest technique.

Up the fire tower goes a line of hose. This set-up is used on ladder to raise the line to top of a building with no delay.

Big thrill comes when auxiliaries are permitted to handle the big hose with a full head of water. It takes two of them to hold it steady. Besides handling fire equipment boys must know first aid, treatment of incendiary bombs, 1001 details.

Dean of Boys Hooper (back to camera) handles the physical exam for senior and junior boys at the Health Center. Local doctors contributed their time and skill free. Each boy took tuberculin and Wassermann tests besides a complete physical check-up.

Joe Watson gets eye test as Jack Woodall's mighty chest looms up to the right. Eye chart is tacked to door behind camera.

A. C. Sorrell looks grim as doctor removes blood from vein. A little later this room was packed with boys and doctors.

First aid is an important part of boy scout program. These Durham High boys practice bandaging, hear doctors lecture.

Scouts act as messengers at local control center. Here Harold Bragg receives incoming message, will take it to plotting room.

Harold hands message to man plotting air-raid damage. Scouts will be couriers if telephone lines are cut by an air-raid.

Industrial users of sugar are directed to the right room by Ralph Rogers, Harvey Renn, Mr. Thornburg, and Kenny Saturday.

"Pop" deBruyne helps Mr. Alfrey straighten out an onlooker's sugar quota. Teachers also rationed gasoline, received no pay.

MISS THOMSON AND MISS HAMPTON fill out the complicated blanks for two industrial sugar consumers

LIFE ON THE NEWSFRONTS OF THE SCHOOL

War lends note of seriousness to graduation of 350 seniors

Graduation is the climax of the school year. The diploma is the reward for four years of high school work. Both take on new meaning this year for the graduating class. Though ably led by President Harvey Renn, the Class of '42 has broken few records, made few headlines. It is an average class making progress slowly but surely, with no startling feats to its credit. Having about three hundred fifty members, it is neither the largest nor the smallest graduating class Durham High School has had. It has the usual quota of scholars and dullards, of stars and plodders, of leaders and followers.

But it is unusual—for it is graduating in a country at war—a country in which young people must become increasingly important. It is more serious-minded, perhaps, more concerned about its future, than its predecessors. It has already been affected by war at home and at school. It knows it will be affected more.

Some of its members plan to join the armed forces soon; some plan to go to college, taking the accelerated war-time program; some plan to find jobs in war industries; fewer than ever before have no plans at all. But for all their diplomas mean the end of one life, the beginning of another. And for all there is one burning question—how can I help?

ONE THOUSAND TICKETS

Feature of the opening of school was the Hi-Rocket Athletic ticket campaign. Having as a slogan, "Buy one and sell one," the campaign was a great success. Over one thousand combination subscriptions to the paper and season tickets to all home athletic events were sold at $2.50. The Coöps led the way as usual, going 200%, while Kenneth Turner was individual high salesman.

TOP-RANKING PUBLICATIONS

The 1941 MESSENGER was perfect! In the competition held by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association each fall, the judges awarded last year's yearbook, edited by Mildred Schulken, a medalist rating, the highest award given, together with a score of one thousand out of a possible one thousand points. Commenting that the book was "the best of a strong line," the judges could find no criticisms, so they filled the criticism sheet with compliments, especially about the theme, "The web of our life is of a mingled yarn, good and ill together."

This year's Hi-Rocket, with Charles Markham as editor, also received a medalist rating in the spring judging at Columbia and an All-Columbian award in headline writing, as well as a first place in the Southern Interscholastic Press Association contest.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Top-ranking job in the school is usually considered the presidency of the Student Council. Last spring Tom Cranford easily won this office. The faith of the voters seems to have been justified.

CRANFORD

Assisted by Vice-President George McLeod, Secretary Jean Smith, and Treasurer Kenneth Saturday, Cranford took up his duties with the supervision of the elections of class officers last fall. Other regular jobs included presiding at all auditorium sessions, and taking charge of the hot lunch line (i.e., seeing that the home rooms go to lunch in the right order). This last job, assumed by the Council two years ago, occupied two members at every lunch period. Co-operating with the Parent-Teachers Association, the Council held Friday night socials in the school gym. These were fairly successful, as all who attended proclaimed them fun.

Only trouble with the Council this year has been the apathy of the student body. Each succeeding set of officers makes a few steps in the direction of more self-government, but progress will continue to be slow until all students realize that the officers can't do everything alone.

Last act of the Council was to hold the election of next year's officers. The winners were: Ralph Rogers, president; Donald Ross, vice-president; Ann Stapleford, secretary; and Charles Brame, treasurer. Again the election was a landslide—for Rogers. Again it is up to the student body to give him its support.

CELEBRATING

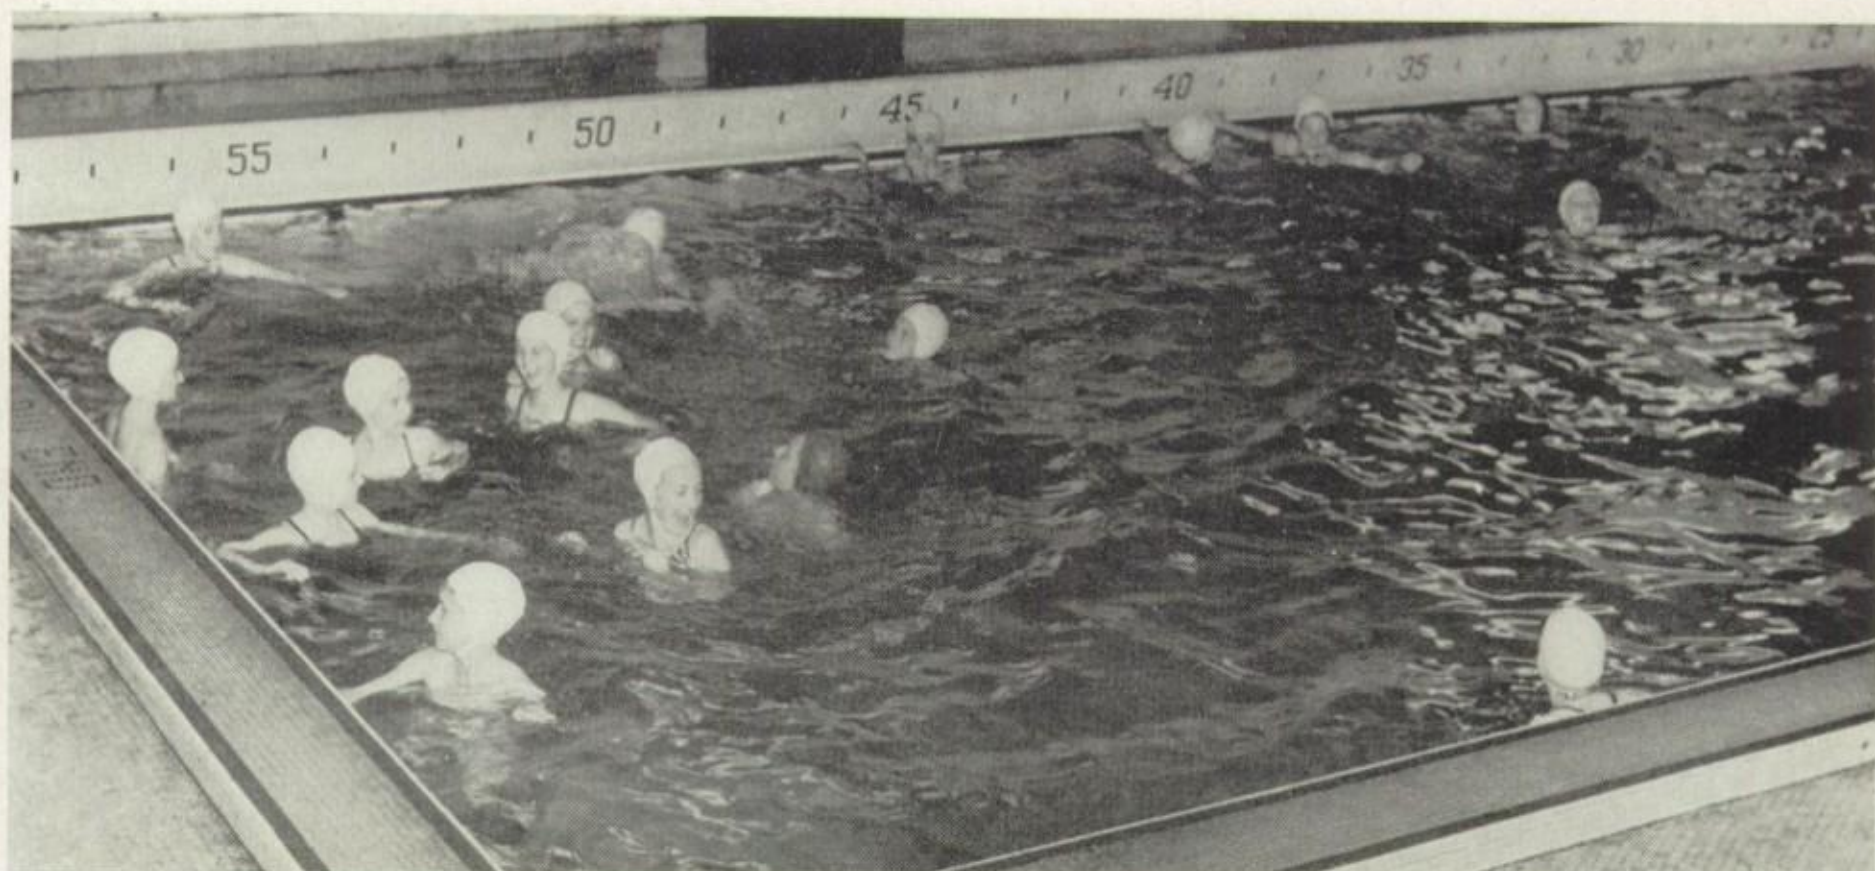

There was celebrating in Durham in December. Reasons: Duke accepted the Rose Bowl bid; the game was moved from Pasadena to Durham; Durham High's big Bob Gantt was one of the stars of the contest.

PICTURE OF THE YEAR▶

At 3:15 P.M. one day late in April, Life photographer Hulet Burnette, standing on a table in the main hall of Durham High School, took the picture of the south corridor on the opposite page. The final bell ending school has just rung a few minutes before and pupils are pouring out of all the classrooms. Typical of the rush in the halls every time classes change, this picture demonstrates why the hoped-for vocational building is badly needed. Optimistic in the autumn about chances for building it, city school officials lost hope of acquiring needed materials when war broke out. Only chance remaining is that Durham County, being a defense area, will be able to obtain materials of which there is a shortage.

GIRLS FROLIC IN THE COLD WATER OF THE POOL WHILE BOYS' CLASSES OCCUPY THE FULL-SIZED GYM OVERHEAD

SWIMMING POOL IS REVAMPED TO PROVIDE NEEDED GYM SPACE AS PHYSICAL ED CLASSES GROW

ONE OF Durham High's outstanding assets has long been her swimming pool, one of the few high-school pools of comparable size in the state. This year, however, an acute shortage of gym space, accentuated by the beginning of compulsory gym classes for senior boys, forced the school to change the pool into a miniature basketball court by the addition of a wooden floor and two baskets. Each gym class divided its time between the regular gym and the new one until good weather in the spring, permitting the classes to go out-of-doors, relieved the situation.

BESIDES SPORTS ACTIVITIES THE NEW GYM HAS GIRLS DANCING IN IT EVERY DAY AT LUNCH (NO BOYS ALLOWED)

MARKHAM AND CANNON WALK OFF WITH STATE HONORS IN SCHOLASTICS, PUBLIC SPEAKING, TO KEEP DURHAM HIGH IN THE LIMELIGHT FOR ANOTHER YEAR

BETWEEN them Charles Markham and Walter Cannon have piled up an unusual record in state contest competition—three state scholastic prizes, two state public speaking championships. In the scholastic division, conducted by the extension division of the University of North Carolina, Markham tied for first place in the French contest with a perfect paper, while Cannon won first prize in both the physics and the Latin tests, also submitting perfect papers in both. In public speaking Markham took top honors in impromptu speaking and Cannon won the state championship in extempore speaking at the North Carolina Speech and Debate Tournament, sponsored by Wake Forest College.

This makes the second consecutive year a Durham High student has won the Latin, physics, and impromptu speaking prizes; it is the first time ever for the French and extempore speaking.

COROSO PLAY, "TURN TO THE RIGHT," DRAWS LARGE CROWD

"TURN TO THE RIGHT," this year's Coroso play, drew a large audience to its performance on December 5. It presented the story of Joe Bascom, a wayward son returning home, who finds that his widowed mother and his sister, Betty, are about to be thrown out of their home by the local miser. Matters are complicated when two of Joe's friends while he was in prison, Muggs and Gilly, come to visit him, almost revealing his past to his mother. With the help of a local boy and aided by the quick-fingered Muggs and Gilly, Joe outthwarts the miser, marries his daughter, and converts him into a good man.

The Coroso play, an annual feature of the dramatics year, is given by the Commercial Club acting with the Coöp Class. The Commercial girls and the Coöp boys take the roles in the play, under the direction of Mr. Bailey Hobgood. The name of the play, Coroso, is taken from the first syllable of the name of the groups giving the play, Co-, the first syllable of the name of the Coöp adviser, Miss Maude Rogers (upper left), -ro-, and the first syllable of the name of the Commercial department head, Miss Ethel Solloway (lower left), -so.

Proceeds from the play, about $50, were divided equally between the two organizations.

Cast of play gathers in evening dress. They are: seated, Sybil Cashwell, Mary Ann Jones, Marguerite Clark, Dot Davis, Brinkley Dunnegan. Standing: Charles Erexson, W. T. Bobbitt, Willard Laws, Jimmy Butler, Malcolm Ray, Mac Fuller.

CLIMAX OF DRAMATICS YEAR IS "CONNECTICUT YANKEE"

A modern version of Mark Twain's famous story, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," came to life on April 17 as the senior class gave its annual play. Under the direction of Miss Brown Phillips, the production brought forth gales of laughter and applause at both performances. The story about a young man who is carried back to King Arthur's Court and there revitalizes the whole setup had several local allusions which made it especially amusing.

Each senior was required to sell three tickets to the play, and all profits went to paying for Class Day and class space in the MESSENGER.

Williams, Lougee, McLeod, and Turner relax before the play. Williams plays Hank, is transported to King Arthur's Court.

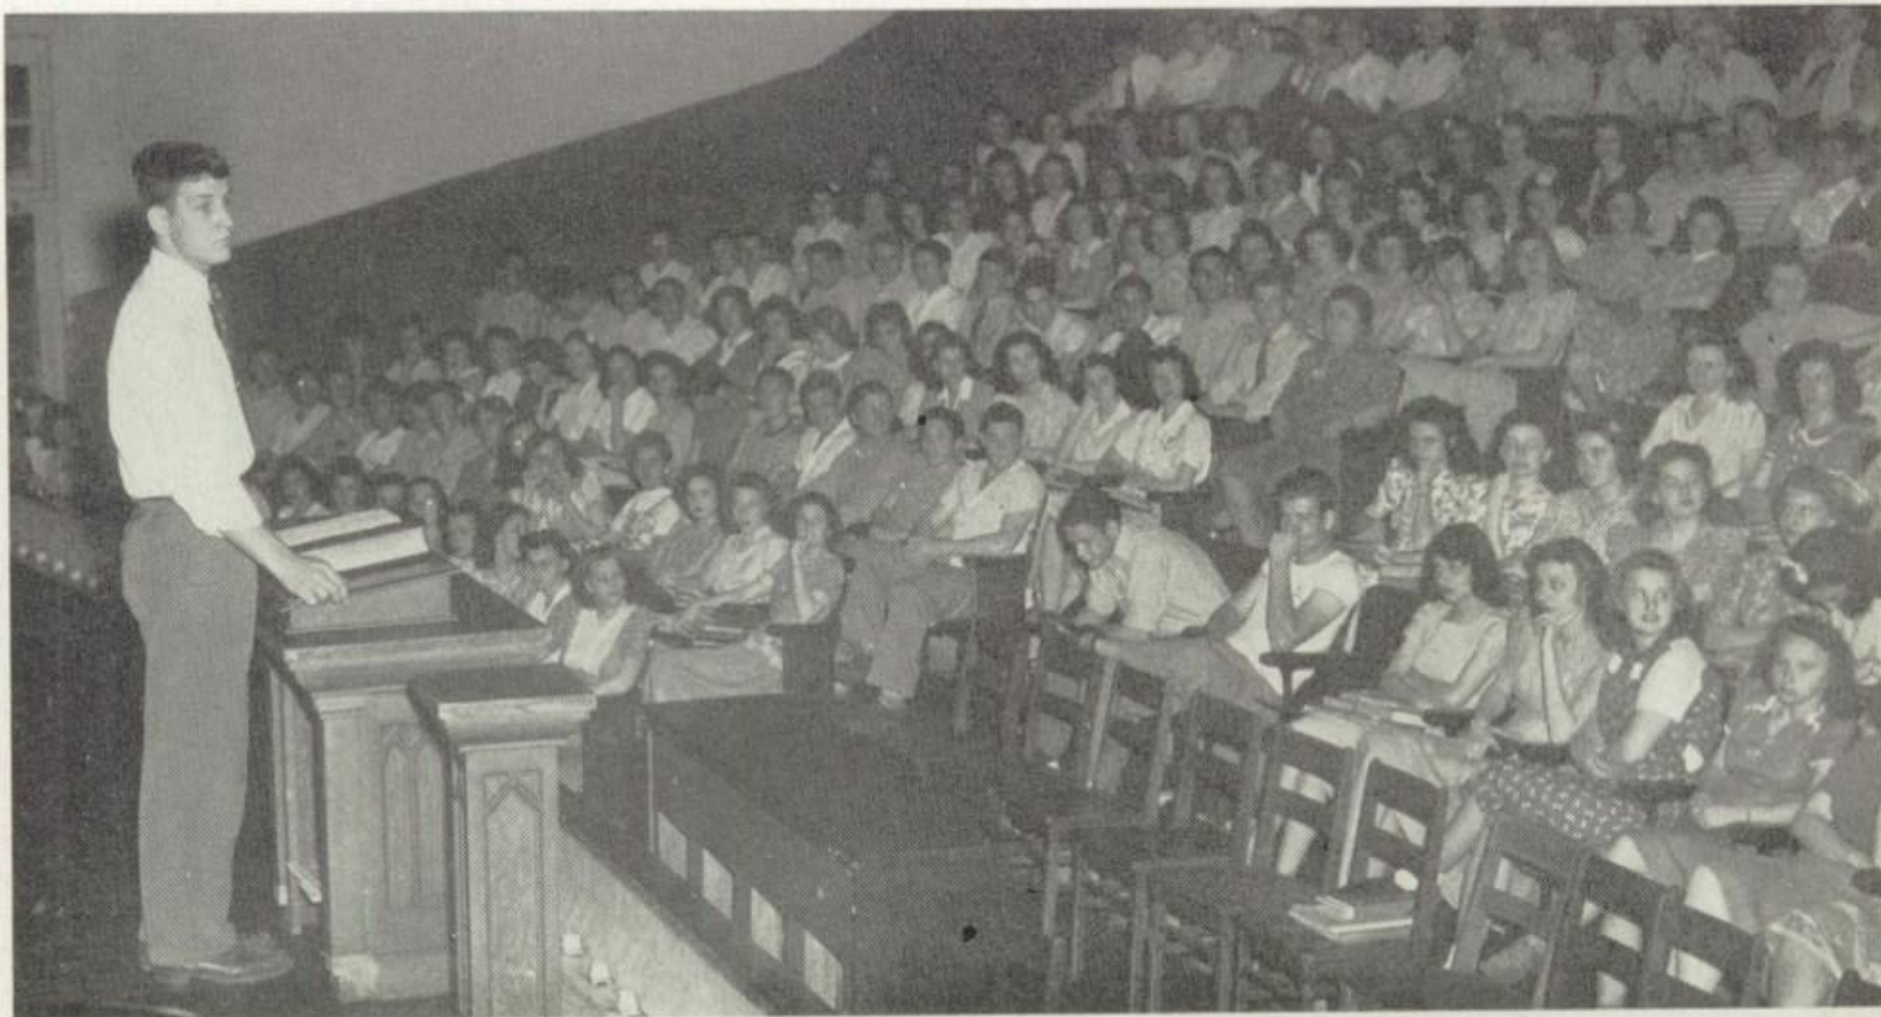

Using an eclipse to show his power, Hank terrifies the king and Merlin into giving him power. He makes startling changes.

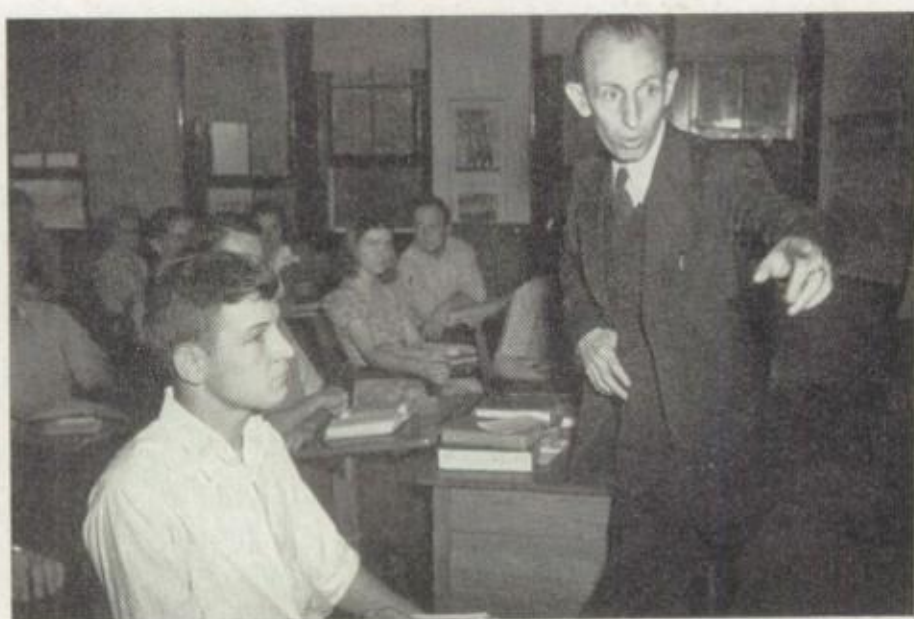

Aiding him are Elaine, Sandy, and Clarence, but Morgan le Fay and Merlin revolt and capture the castle while he is away.

AS PRESIDENT OF THE STUDENT COUNCIL, CRANFORD PRESIDES AT BOTH TUESDAY AND FRIDAY AUDITORIUM SESSIONS

In first period history class, Tom, who makes average grades, looks at the map which seems to be agitating Mr. Phillips.

He studies the theory of printing in D. O. classroom, puts his studies into practice during the afternoon at his job.

TOM CRANFORD AND DOT MURRAY

IMPOSSIBLE to depict fully are all of Durham High's activities: two publications, seventeen clubs, ten literary societies, six sports, girls' intramurals, two special classes, and other organizations, not to mention regular scholastic work. So Life did the next best thing: it picked two typical seniors and followed them around school. To make sure of picking out the right students it held an election, with the senior class voting upon its two most representative members. As everyone expected, Tom Cranford and Dot Murray won.

Tom is a quiet sort of fellow with a slow grin which wins him friends by the score. Last year even as a junior he was elected to the presidencies of the D. O. Class and the Public Speaking Club, positions usually reserved for seniors.

Tom and Dot eat together in the school cafeteria. About five hundred students often eat here, rest buy or bring cold lunch.

Miss Leitner talks to Girls' Monogram Club while Dot (with letter "D") and others listen. Meeting is in school auditorium.

Bible quiz doesn't faze Dot, who breezes through it. Bible is a new subject first added to the curriculum this year.

ARE TYPICAL OF DURHAM HIGH

THIS YEAR with the most important job in the school—presidency of the Student Council—on his shoulders, he has still had time for many other tasks: vice-presidency of the state Hi-Y Clubs, membership in the track team, the Commercial Club, the D. O. Class, and the Public Speaking Club.

Dot made herself vociferously known to the student body at the football games in the fall as the peppy head cheerleader. As manager of the girls' volleyball team and as an athlete herself, she qualified for membership in both the G. A. A. and the Girls' Monogram Club. She is president and leading member of the Cornelia Spencer Literary Society and secretary of the Mummers Dramatics Club. Like nearly every other girl in the school she belongs to the Junior Needlework Guild.

For more snapshots featuring other students and teachers at D. H. S., turn the page.

As secretary of the Mummers she calls the roll. Dot is proud of her office, keeps minutes and records neat and up-to-date.

Dot makes good use of study hall in the library. She is a first honor roll student, is taking two languages, French and Spanish.

Tom Bell, Betty Rezner, and Donald Landon perform a chemistry experiment. Something must have gone wrong with their plans.

'Fessor leads the mixed chorus in the Easter Carol Service, with choruses from all schools participating on the program.

Miss Leitner's bicycle, once thought a queer plaything for a teacher, now is symbolic of what must take the place of autos.

Circulation manager Dick Christian and Betty Rezner carry Hi-Rockets to post office for mailing to non-school subscribers.

Dances given by local organizations break the monotony of studies. Once lavish, many have been simplified for the duration.

Cold lunch line attracts many students. Sandwiches, cakes, pies, candy, milk, and ice cream are sold at a nickel apiece. Two lines speed service. Most students spend about twenty cents here or in the cafeteria at one of the three lunch periods.

Mr. Holton gives out announcements to messengers from all the rooms at the end of the eighth period. The only communication office has with rooms is through these messengers, who go to office when two bells ring, take messages back to classmates.

Life Goes to the Willie, the maid, takes wraps from T. C. Powell and Elizabeth Capps. This is Willie's big night and she dresses her best.

Decorations from above form almost impenetrable blanket, give scant glimpses of dancers. Decorators slaved all afternoon.

Bob Simmons gives band boys rest as crowd mills in background. Note Mr. Baucom, who showed the youngsters how to jitterbug.

Ralph Rogers, junior class president, adjusts red-white-and-blue bunting before dance. This is the final step in decorating.

Junior-Senior Social

DANCING started to the music of the "Hi-Hatters," the swing band organized this year at D. H. S. Fast numbers predominated, and drew the approval of most, though sweet pieces were not overlooked. People who didn't dance were cared for, too. A bingo game was conducted in the cafeteria, and a large crowd attended. Besides non-dancers, many couples played for a short time to rest after a few numbers of strenuous jitterbugging.

At intermission the punch and cookies went fast; then the gym was cleared and everyone took seats in the auditorium to watch a variety show put on by a few chosen juniors. Master of Ceremonies Dennis O'Briant presented two short skits, a "hot" pianist, Harold Fuquay, Iona Mosely, warbler of the blues, and several other acts. Hit of the evening, however, was Evelyn Jones, who won round after round with her sweet songs and was called back for numerous encores.

After intermission the dancing began again, even hotter than before. Individual pairs began to shine and several times the whole crowd gathered around to watch a "hep" couple "go to town." All too soon the strains of "Blues in the Night," theme song of the "Hi-Hatters," announced the end of the frolicking for another year.

Mr. Phillips conducts Bingo game for non-dancers, awards winners with novelties. One, won by John Kerr, amused Hi-Rocket.

"Hi-Hatters", new D.H.S. swing band, go to town on a hot piece. Music was proclaimed good and exceptionally hot. Band was formed this year by Bob Simmons, new band director, has played for afternoon socials, radio programs, both assemblies.

ONE AND ONLY SNOW

Sirs:

Snow this far south is very unusual. Only one fall of any size came this winter, and that lasted but a day. Taking advantage of it, Newton Angier and Sara Cheek decided to have an old-fashioned snow-battle. The picture below shows them in the middle of the fun. Newton was the victor, as his aim proved much the better.

JOHN KERR

AFFECTIONATE FAREWELL

Sirs:

When W. J. Humphries left for the navy, Le Cerele Français gave him a farewell party. During the course of the evening Carolyn Hooper and Margaret Lawrence became quite affectionate, and this is the scene that took place. If every club bids its adviser farewell in this manner, all the male teachers will soon be gone.
